1ST SEASON (1ST OVERALL) | 4-7 (4-7 IN NEW YORK) | OHIO STATE '96

1ST SEASON (1ST WITH NEW YORK) • OHIO STATE '96
4-7 (.363) OVERALL RECORD | 4-7 (.363) WITH NEW YORK | 0-0 (.000) PLAYOFFS

Katie Smith enters her fourth season as a member of the New York Liberty coaching staff, having been promoted to associate head coach for the 2016 season, after serving two years as an assistant coach. Since Smith joined the coaching staff, the Liberty has posted an overall record of 59-43 (.578), posting back-to-back 20-win seasons and WNBA Playoffs berths in 2015 and 2016.

Smith spent the 2013 season – her final in the WNBA – with the Liberty, reuniting with Bill Laimbeer who she won two titles with as a member of the Detroit Shock (now Dallas). She retired after the 2013 campaign, finishing her 17-year playing career as the all-time leading scorer in women's professional basketball and second in WNBA history, scoring 7,885-career points as a professional and 6,452 in the WNBA.

A 15-year veteran of the WNBA, Smith was a seven-time All-Star and two-time First Team All-WNBA selection. She won WNBA Championships in 2006 and 2008 with the Shock, and in 2011 was voted one of the Top 15 Players in WNBA history. She ranks first in the WNBA in both three-point field goals made (906) and attempted (2,466), second in career points (6,452), fourth in free throws made (1,440) and 10th in all-time assists (1,258).

Smith is the all-time leading scorer in the history of U.S. women's professional basketball (ABL & WNBA) with 7,885 career points. Smith signed with the WNBA in 1999, joining Minnesota after a two-year stint in the ABL. In 2006, she became the only player to win a championship with both the ABL and WNBA, which was the same year she became the first player to win a WNBA All-Star game as a member of both the Eastern and Western Conference teams. During the WNBA's 20th season in 2016, Smith was voted as one of the top-20 best and most influential players in league history.

Her success also extended to the international level, having won three Olympic Gold Medals in 2000, 2004 and 2008, and the World Championships in 1998 and 2002.

Smith spent several seasons on the women's basketball staff at her alma mater Ohio State University. As a student-athlete for the Buckeyes, Smith helped guide her team to the NCAA championship game as a freshman, and went on to break the Big Ten scoring record for points scored in a career in men's or women's basketball. On Jan. 21, 2001, Ohio State honored her as the first female Buckeye athlete to have her number retired.

CAREER COACHING HIGHLIGHTS

- Earned first win against Dallas on May 29, 2018 by the score of 94-89.

CAREER PLAYING HIGHLIGHTS

LIBERTY 2018 SEASON HEADLINES

- New York finished with the best record in the WNBA Eastern Conference for the 3rd-straight season, going 22-12 overall, earning the No. 3 seed in the WNBA Playoffs.
- The Liberty posted three consecutive seasons with at least 20 victories.
- New York lost to Washington in the 2nd Round of the WNBA Playoffs, falling in a single-elimination game at The Garden 82-68.
- Tina Charles finished the season ranked 3rd in the WNBA in scoring, 4th in rebounding, and 6th in minutes (32.2 mpg). She was named 1st Team All-WNBA for a 3rd-straight season and named 1st Team WNBA All-Defensive for the 1st time in her career. Charles was named 1st Team All-WNBA for a 2nd-straight season, becoming the 1st Liberty player to earn the accolade in back-to-back seasons.
- Katie Smith became the 7th head coach in franchise history this year. Smith retired following the 2013 season in New York, and spent the last four years as an assistant coach with the Liberty, having been promoted to Associate Head Coach prior to the 2016 season.

KEY MATCHUP

The Sparks have a pair of former MVPs on their roster in Candace Parker and Nneka Ogwumike, and the head-to-head matchup between Parker and Tina Charles will be one to watch on Sunday. Already two of the greatest WNBA players to ever take the floor, they have eerily similar numbers across their distinguished careers. Parker has averaged 17.3 points and 8.7 rebounds per game, while Charles racks up 18.2 points and 9.9 boards per contest.

LAST MEETING

On August 13, 2017, the Liberty used a 20-0 run in the second quarter to power their way to a 83-69 victory over the Sparks at Madison Square Garden.

Tina Charles scored 21 points for New York, and Shavonte Zellous added 19. Odyssey Sims led Los Angeles with 18.

The Liberty overcame an early 27-16 deficit in the victory. The win marked their third-straight.

MILESTONE TRACKER

With a three-point jumper midway through the third quarter on Friday, Tina Charles reached 5,000 points for her career, becoming the fifth-fastest player in WNBA history to reach the milestone. She is now 12 points away from surpassing Taj McWilliams-Franklin to move into 18th on the all-time scoring list.

GETTING TO THE LINE

The Liberty are one of the better free-throw shooting teams in the WNBA with an 81.2 percent success rate, but they got to the line just 10 times against the Aces (hitting all 10 of them). They have now attempted 10 or fewer free throws four times this season, and they are winless in those contests.

MISSING X-FACTOR
Shavonte Zellous, the Liberty's starting shooting guard in their first 10 games of the season, missed Friday's matchup against the Aces due to injury. She is averaging 14.8 points per game in New York victories this season, and the team is 4-1 when she scores in double figures.

NEW YORK AT LAS VEGAS RECAP (6/22)
LAS VEGAS PROVES TOO MUCH FOR NEW YORK, 88-78
Tina Charles becomes the 19th player in WNBA history to reach 5,000 career points

Las Vegas, Nev. – June 22, 2018 – Amanda Zahui B notched back-to-back baskets to start the fourth quarter, tying the game for the New York Liberty as they faced the Las Vegas Aces at the Mandalay Bay Events Center on Friday night. The Aces (5-9) pulled away however, ultimately coming out on top 88-78 in the season's second matchup between the two teams.

The Liberty (4-7) couldn't find an offensive rhythm in the first half, managing 26 points before the break, a season-low, on just 23 percent shooting from the field. Additionally, their 11 points in the second quarter matched their season-low for any quarter this season.

"It was a tough one." Head coach Katie Smith began. "We battled. I thought we came out during the second half and executed a lot better. We just had enough breakdowns to put us behind-offensive rebounds, sending them to the line and them hitting a few big buckets that we didn't hit. It's frustrating too. We have a two-time Olympian and MVP who led the league in scoring some years and she's driving hard and shoots zero free throws. We're going to put our heads down and keep playing hard, but we have to do it with more consistency through the 40 minutes."

Tina Charles was not exempt from the first half struggles, scoring just four points on a 2-of-11 showing from the field. Despite a poor shooting night, the forward still had a solid all-around game, finishing with 14 points, eight rebounds, and five assists.

The game also marked another historic achievement for Charles, as she reached 5,000 career points with a three-pointed midway through the third quarter. The veteran is the fifth-fastest player in WNBA history to reach the milestone.

"In the moment it feels good, very thankful, but I wish we had the win." Charles explained. "Everything feels better when you get the win. Throughout my career, I'm thankful for the Connecticut Sun and New York for believing in my abilities on the offensive end and trusting me to help organizations to be in a good position."

The Liberty and Aces had comparable numbers across the board, with the glaring exception of free throws. New York went a perfect 10-for-10 from the line, but the Aces garnered 21 more attempts, hitting 28 of their 31 shots from the charity stripe.

Shooting guard Shavonte Zellous, who had started all 10 of the Liberty's games this season, missed the contest due to illness. An important offensive weapon, the team is 4-1 when she scores in double-figures.

The loss is the Liberty's second against the Aces and former head coach Bill Laimbeer this season. They will look to bounce back in the second game of their two-game road trip when they face the Los Angeles Sparks on Sunday. Tipoff is set for 5:00 p.m. (ET) at the Staples Center.

NEW YORK VS. ATLANTA RECAP (6/19)
LIBERTY HANDLE DREAM AT HOME, 79-72
Liberty turn in an impressive defensive performance in a much-needed victory

White Plains, NY – June 19, 2018 – The New York Liberty successfully defended their home court against the Atlanta Dream on Tuesday night, coming out on top 79-72, at the Westchester County Center.

The Liberty (4-6) jumped out to an 11-point lead after the first quarter as the Dream (6-6) mustered just six points, the lowest output in any quarter this season by a New York opponent.

Angel McCoughtry, who finished with a career-high 39 points, spearheaded a second-half resurgence for Atlanta. The Dream tied it up with under two minutes to go in the third, but an 18-8 Liberty run to start the final quarter quelled the comeback attempt.

Head coach Katie Smith explained. "Tonight, we made mistakes, but I thought the effort we gave in this ball game is what is needed every single night. We had a couple of moments when we knew they would not go away. McCoughtry was putting a lot of heat on us. Fortunately, were able to get a nice little cushion at the end."

The New York defense held Atlanta to a lowly 29.9-percent shooting performance for the game. Moreover, the Dream's 72 points were the fewest scored against the Liberty this season.

The Liberty forced 18 turnovers, and their 12 steals established a new season-high.

Tina Charles commented on the team's defensive performance. "That effort is what carried us throughout the game. Katie really put an emphasis on us needing to step up on the defensive end and moving when the ball moves. With New York Liberty basketball, our defense has always been number one. We just tried to get back to that nature and rely on our foundation which is built on the defensive end. That's what propelled us to the victory."

Charles paced the Liberty with 29 points, her fifth game this season with 20 or more points. The forward also added eight rebounds to the cause.

Brittany Boyd racked up 11 assists in just 16 minutes off the bench, marking a new career-high. She became the first player in WNBA history to reach 11 helpers in under 20 minutes of play.

Rookie Kia Nurse was back in double figures after a two-game hiatus, finishing with 11 points off the bench. Shavonte Zellous added 13 of her own, and New York is now 4-1 when she reaches double figures.

The victory comes on the heels of a tough stretch in which the Liberty dropped four out of five. They will look to stay in the win column on Friday when they travel to Las Vegas for their second matchup against the Aces. The game is set to start at 10:00 p.m. (ET) at the Mandalay Bay Events Center.

NEW YORK AT MINNESOTA RECAP (6/16)
LIBERTY STRUGGLE IN MINNESOTA, 85-71
Liberty cannot contain the defending champions in their second matchup of the season

Minneapolis, Minnesota – June 16, 2018 – The New York Liberty briefly held a 7-6 advantage early, but a Minnesota Lynx layup gave them a lead they would not relinquish the rest of the game. The Lynx (4-6) led by double figures for the entirety of the later three quarters eventually taking the contest, 81-75, Saturday night.

The Liberty (3-6) got off to a sluggish start, registering just 16 points in the first quarter. The output marked their fourth consecutive quarter with less than 20 points, dating back to their contest against the Aces.

New York had no answer for Minnesota's dynamic duo of Sylvia Fowles and Maya Moore. The two combined for 45 points on 60 percent shooting.

Minnesota managed to keep New York off the glass. The Liberty brought down just three offensive rebounds and 22 in total, matching their season-low against Indiana (6/2).

Bria Hartley had a solid all-around game for the Liberty, notching nine points to go along with six assists. It was her third game this season with six helpers.

Tina Charles finished with 12 points, her lowest output of the season.

Epiphanny Prince got her first extended action of the season after an abbreviated debut against Las Vegas. The guard finished with eight points in 14 minutes off the bench.

The loss was the second in a row for the Liberty, who have dropped four out of their last five. They will look to right the ship at home against the Atlanta Dream on Tuesday night. Tipoff is set for 7 p.m. (ET) at the Westchester County Center.

POSTGAME QUOTES (6/22)
Tina Charles on reaching 5000-point mark…
"In the moment it feels good, very thankful, but I wish we had the win. Everything feels better when you get the win. Throughout my career, I'm thankful for the Connecticut Sun and New York for believing in my abilities on the offensive end and trusting me to help organizations to be in a good position."

Charles on tonight's game plan…
"A majority of us in the locker room know Bill's system, but it just comes down to the effort. When it came to guarding their plays, I believe we were fine, but McBride made big shots and Wilson is going to do what she has to do to help her team. But when it comes to effort, it comes down to us limiting their second chance points and getting them off the boards, just playing good strong defense without fouling. We only shot 10 free throws throughout the game to their 31, so we have to be more aggressive because they are very aggressive."

Charles on guarding A'ja Wilson…
"She's a very aggressive player, she does what her team needs her to do, but personally guarding her wasn't very tough. I'm not going to give that kid that much credit, but again she's a great player and she's great for the league. The league is in good hands with players like herself and the remainder of this rookie class."

Charles on playing in Vegas…
"I'm happy we're able to expand the game, especially for the youth to have a women's basketball team as the first professional women's game to be in Vegas, I think is really great for the community. The more the WNBA expands, the better."

Amanda Zahui B on coming off the bench and scoring 12 points…
"We always talk about we have to be ready whenever our names are called, whether offensively or defensively, just bringing energy off the bench that is our main focus. We have to be the X factors in the game."

Zahui B on scoring double digits…
"I think I was more aggressive, we were one man down so everybody had to step it up and be more aggressive."

Zahui B on game plan…
"We had the same game plan, we just had to execute on defense and offense, play tougher and be more aggressive on both sides."

COACH'S CORNER

6/22 Postgame Quotes

Head Coach Katie Smith on the loss:

"It was a tough one. We battled. I thought we came out during the second half and executed a lot better. We just had enough breakdowns to put us behind: offensive rebounds, sending them to the line and them hitting a few big buckets that we didn't hit. It's frustrating too. We have a two-time Olympian and MVP who led the league in scoring some years and she's driving hard and shoots zero free throws. We're going to put our heads down and keep playing hard but we have to do it with more consistency through the 40 minutes."

Smith on turnovers and decision-making…

"I think part of it was decision-making. They pressured us enough. I don't mind aggressive turnovers when you're driving and the ball gets popped loose. But we threw the ball into congested areas and we weren't making the right reads at times. A part of it is discipline, knowing when and when not to make those plays."

Smith on bench production…

"We have a deep team and we're trying to find the production. [Amanda] Zahui B did a nice job offensively. But we just need consistent play from everyone. We need everyone to show that discipline on the offensive and defensive end and everyone needs to be ready to knock down shots. But I have a lot of faith in our bench. We're a deep team but we just need to get everyone on the same page."

Smith on Tina Charles reaching the 5000-point mark

"She's just a superstar. She really is. She's a very talented player. But again, she didn't get any free throws so she was forced to shoot jump shots tonight. She deserves better. She played hard for us on both ends and she logs a lot of minutes for us. We need other people to step up and maybe give her a breather."

TINA CHARLES - HOPEY'S HEART FOUNDATION

The Hopey's Heart Foundation was formed in memory of Tina Charles' late aunt Maureen "Hopey" Vaz, who died of multiple organ failure on March 9th, 2013. Hopey was known for having a very giving heart and when her own heart failed it was a tragic loss to her family and an eye-opener to Charles, who prior to the passing of her aunt, made a $14,775 donation for ten Automated External Defibrillators (AED) to the New York Department of Education and the Wes Leonard Heart Team. The Hopey's Heart Foundation was founded to prevent Sudden Cardiac Arrest from claiming the lives of promising student athletes like Wes Leonard. It is committed to providing AEDs nationally for the prevention of heart and other injuries in student and amateur athletes through the provision of health education and medical equipment in schools, community and recreational centers. The Hopey's Heart Foundation is committed to improving sports safety and raising awareness of Sudden Cardiac Arrest throughout the country. Tina annually donates her entire WNBA salary to Hopey's Heart Foundation in order to place AEDs in areas of need.

'I wanted to show with my heart what Hopey's heart really meant': New York Liberty star Tina Charles continues to honor her late aunt through charity
By John Altavilla

Around the time her first child was born, Tina Charles' grandmother decided her infant daughter, Maureen, should also have a symbolic sobriquet that would properly convey the family's joy.

"She gave her a nickname, Hopey, because she brought hope to the family as its first born," said Charles, the five-time WNBA All-Star now in her fifth season with the New York Liberty.

It turned out to be a prophetic gesture. From all accounts, Hopey's life was one of unflinching service and caring, first in her homeland, Jamaica, then in New York City where she migrated in 1978. Reunited with her sister Angella, Charles' mother, Hopey married Bertrell Vaz and had her own children, Christopher and Jacquelyn, before moving to Florida in 1991 to be closer to the bulk of her family.

It was in Florida where Hopey's inherent disposition really shined brightest. For two decades, she served the Cooper City Church of God, an usher and greeter known for her smile and endearing nature.

"She lived in Florida and I lived in New York, but we'd always have family group chats with my mother and all of her sisters and her brother," said Charles. "My relationship with her was always there. She was a supportive, God-fearing woman who never gave up.

"She always reminded me to put God first in everything that I do, to always remember that he keeps his promises and to be patient, not to rush the process or take anything into my own hands. That's who my aunt was. I thought I could identify with her because of her wisdom."

As Charles became the national high school player of the year at Christ the King High in Middle Village, N.Y. and go on to win two national championships (2009 and 2010) on undefeated UConn teams, her aunt Hopey remained a constant source of support. Months after Charles was drafted first overall by the Connecticut Sun, Vaz accompanied her to the 2010 FIBA World Championships in the Czech Republic since her parents were unable to attend.

"I have many memories of her [Hopey] being there and spending time with my mother. They hung out together, had their moms' group going on," said Maya Moore, a former teammate of Charles at UConn. "I feel more connected (to Hopey) just because of the time I got to spend with her there."

In March 2011, Michigan high school basketball player Wes Leonard died suddenly of cardiac arrest after making a game-winning shot in overtime. The story, which made nationwide headlines, affected Charles, who had finished her rookie season with the Sun months earlier. She immediately donated $14,775 to the Wes Leonard Heart Foundation and began thinking about how to use her platform someday to help prevent another such tragedy.

"It intrigued me. I had no idea at the time what sudden cardiac arrest was," said Charles. "I had never heard of an AED (automated external defibrillator). But I knew I didn't want that to happen to myself or anyone else that I knew. So, I just took money from my own hands."

Two years after Leonard's death, Charles was affected by a much more personal tragedy. After a long illness, Maureen 'Hopey' Vaz died of multiple organ failure on March 9, 2013. In her grief, Charles' mind began to race. What could she do? How could she help? How might she keep her aunt's name alive?

"I had been very giving before my aunt's death, but then I decided after it that I wanted to focus my efforts on (donating AEDs)," said Charles.

With the help of her mother, Charles started "Hopey's Heart Foundation" in April 2013, a charity that would devote itself to the distribution of AEDs worldwide. And she began it with a gesture that still continues five years later, pledging half of her annual WNBA salary.

"By donating my WNBA salary, I have been able to place these devices all over the world," said Charles. "The mission of my organization is not relative to how my aunt passed away. I wanted to show with my heart what Hopey's heart really meant."

Swin Cash, a former UConn star who enjoyed a long WNBA career before being named the Liberty's director of franchise development in 2017, is not surprised about Charles' dedication to philanthropy.

"I remember when Tina was trying to figure out what she wanted to do, how to get involved," said Cash. "I told her at that time to determine what her passion was."

Over the years, Charles has distributed 338 AEDs globally. Along with her mother, she reviews applications from organizations seeking a device that can cost up to $1,600.

"Tina just goes above and beyond when it comes to treating others the way you want to be treated, looking out for the interests of others more than your own," said Moore. "She is really walking the walk. She is somebody who is not doing this for the attention. I know this has come from a real genuine place in her heart. And it makes me feel great to know that she's been able to save lives and will continue to inspire and educate others in that area. It seems like something so small. But having one of those in someone's gym can save a life. And it already has."

In July 2017, Dan Carlson, 59, the head of landscaping for a 200-acre residential complex in Texas, suddenly collapsed after suffering a heart attack.

Months before, Hopey's Heart had awarded an AED to the facility, which cares for the intellectually disabled. Once Carlson fell, a co-worker was told the device was on-hand and was instructed on its use. Carlson began to breathe.

Two months later, Carlson, his wife and two co-workers were brought to New York to surprise Charles at a Liberty practice. Charles began to cry.

"I don't recall specifically what I said, but I know it was 'Thank you," Carlson told ESPNW that day. "I thanked her for her compassion and generosity. I wouldn't be here, standing here talking right now, if it weren't for her, and I think I told her that."

After five years, Charles is still trying to figure out how to generate the public and corporate support that Hopey's Heart will eventually need to sustain itself. As of yet, that hasn't been forthcoming. And she has no staff to figure out how to resolve that.

"There have been stories written about it,' said Cash. "But I don't think many people understand the significance. It requires a lot of money and there hasn't been one sponsor yet in our league. . . . I'd like to issue a challenge to those who believe how wonderful this cause is and want to help it out. How about we (the WNBA) stand up for our players who are putting their money where their mouth is."

While her charity efforts have been a main focus, Charles remains fully engaged on the court. Earlier this month at Madison Square Garden in an 80-74 loss to the Phoenix Mercury, Charles passed Sheryl Swoopes, a Hall of Famer and three-time WNBA MVP for 19th on the WNBA all-time scoring list.

Heading into Saturday's game against the Minnesota Lynx, she's just 66 points behind Taj McWilliams-Franklin for the next spot.

At some point, Charles, 29, promises she think about her future, one certain to include admission the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame and, perhaps, the Naismith Hall of Fame.

That certainly will not happen until the Liberty win a league championship, which would be the first in Charles' career. That is her agenda for now. Until then, she's not interested in comparing her impact with the Liberty to that Patrick Ewing once enjoyed with the Knicks.

After all, like Ewing, she is now the heart of her franchise – in many ways.

"I don't think you remember how many points or rebounds you've had, but you remember moments in the locker room, moments when something funny happens when you are traveling," said Charles.

'It's about the camaraderie and the people you meet along the way. Maybe when I retire I will have a better answer, but right now I am just focused on the present. I don't think I've really accomplished anything yet.

"I just hope that who I am as a person off-the-court will speak louder than what I have been able to do on it. I just put a ball in a basket. I hope to be able to inspire other girls to want to play in the WNBA. And I hope that some of the teammates I've had will also be able to pay it forward as a result of what I have been able to do. That's what's important to me."

It's full speed ahead for Liberty coach Katie Smith
By Mechelle Voepel

At some point, perhaps in October, Liberty coach Katie Smith should sit down and leisurely hit the mental rewind on what is one of the landmark periods of her life. Smith will be able to think back on 2018 being her first season as a head coach, and being the year that she was inducted into the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame and the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame.

Right now, though, it's hard to find any time to reflect.

"I threw something together," Smith said last week about her speech preparation for the WBHOF's induction ceremony Saturday in Knoxville, Tennessee. "It's been a little rough to put down your thoughts on the past when you're in constant game mode and prep mode. I'm going to enjoy my day, and we'll see how the speech plays out."

Smith was the only one of the seven inductees who nailed the hoped-for time limit of 5-7 minutes; she spoke for 6½. And it was a reminder of some of Smith's qualities that perhaps get obscured by all her high-level, sustained success and talent as a player: She likes discipline, order and predictability.

The last one, in particular, is the furthest thing from guaranteed in a career in athletics. And maybe even more so in women's basketball.

"I chose a career where it was possible to be back at home, driving to my Christmas shopping," Smith said during her speech, "and finding out the league I was playing in was shutting down. By a reporter calling me for my reaction. That's how I found out the ABL folded.

"Or you could be named the head coach [of the Liberty] and then find out that your team is being sold. As I said, 'How on earth is this my life?' Not a shot at security, or certainty, or a well-worn path. Just this amazing game choosing me. And I honestly could not be more grateful."

Indeed, Smith went from the national championship game as a freshman at Ohio State ... to missing the tournament the next two years ... to playing her last college game at eventual NCAA champ Tennessee ... to two ABL titles at home in Columbus, Ohio ... to the ABL folding ... to a spot in the WNBA with Minnesota ... to a lopsided trade to Detroit, where she helped the Shock win two titles ... to that franchise leaving Detroit ... to finishing her WNBA career playing for three different teams ... to going into coaching.

That's where she is now with the 3-4 Liberty, who host Las Vegas on Wednesday. It will be a chance for Smith to face Aces coach Bill Laimbeer, a longtime mentor going back to her playing days in Detroit and then when he was the Liberty's head coach.

"I appreciate Bill, and I've said that many times, but I got to do a lot," Smith said of her time as Laimbeer's assistant. "I got to have a voice; I got to do scouts. I didn't come in like, 'What do I do?' "

Rather, she began her head coaching career with a sense of calm and trying to stay in the moment. The Liberty are now playing in a different venue, the Westchester County Center, that is -- to say the least -- very different in size and vibe from previous longtime home Madison Square Garden. Neither Smith nor her players know for sure when the Liberty officially will be sold -- MSG has had the franchise on the market since late last year -- or how that eventual sale logistically will impact the team.

Tina Charles, who is averaging 22.3 points and 8.1 rebounds, remains the Liberty's stalwart post player. New York's top draft pick, guard Kia Nurse at No. 10, has been terrific so far off the bench, averaging 14.6 points. Veteran guard/forward Marissa Coleman, whom the Liberty picked up after she was waived by Indiana, is starting and averaging 8.0 PPG; she hit the winning shot against the Fever on Sunday.

Center Kia Vaughn reported a little late because she was playing in the Turkish league finals. Center Kiah Stokes has had a foot issue that has limited her to three games. Sugar Rodgers (knee) and Brittany Boyd (Achilles) have recently gotten back into action. The Liberty are still waiting for the return of guard Epiphanny Prince from a concussion.

But injuries and players coming in late are among the uncontrollable things all WNBA coaches must deal with. There are more of those than usual for Smith right now. But her personality has adjusted to being good with that.

"It's weird ... I feel like I should be more upset sometimes,'' Smith said. "But I think I approach it more like I did as a player: 'OK, let's find a way to go get this done.' You've been through it, and know things that you cannot predict are going to happen. It's not something I get too worked up about."

Take last Thursday's loss to Connecticut, where New York led 86-84 with 5.6 seconds left. The one thing the Liberty couldn't afford was surrendering a 3-pointer.

But Connecticut's Shekinna Stricklen hit one at the buzzer -- and got fouled as well, making the free throw to add insult to injury.

Sun 88, Liberty 86.

"It does crush you a little bit," Smith said. "Then you're thinking about just a few things different here or there, and we win."

But by 4 a.m. the next morning, Smith was taking an Uber to LaGuardia airport for her flight to Knoxville. The fact that her connection went through Detroit was just one of those 'the universe is winking at you' kind of coincidences.

It was with the Shock that Smith got into the best shape of her life, expanded her leadership skills and formed a good player/coach relationship with Laimbeer. It was in Detroit that the seeds for Smith's coaching career were sown.

The material was always there, though.

"I looked up to Katie, even going back to college," said fellow Hall of Fame inductee Chamique Holdsclaw, who played for Tennessee against Smith in 1996 in her final game with the Buckeyes. "I admired the way she played and carried herself."

Tina Thompson is going on a similar journey this year as Smith, being inducted into the same two Halls of Fame while starting a head-coaching career, at the college level at Virginia. Thompson and Smith were on the U.S. national team together for several years, plus played one season together (2012) with the Seattle Storm. Both retired as players in 2013, and now both are on the sideline.

Smith, though, is in season right now -- and she hopes that will be the case deep into September. The Liberty have lost in the single-elimination second round the past two WNBA postseasons, and in the Eastern Conference finals the year before that. Smith isn't thinking directly about the 2018 playoffs now. But to some degree, it is always on her mind.

"Close games sting, because you don't want them to bite you in the end," Smith said of qualifying for the postseason. "But you also don't want to panic. You want to trust the process, which is kind of a corny line. But it's true.

"So many WNBA teams are tough. If you don't show up, you're going to get beat. I believe this is as wide open as it's been in a while. The biggest key is just make the playoffs. That's the goal: Get in and then see what happens."

And then, whenever it is all over this year, Smith can catch her breath and spend some time marveling at all that 2018 has meant to her.
