In 2017, the 3 game series between the Sky and the Sparks was back and forth. The Sparks took the series 2-1. In 2018, the Sky is looking to flip the tide and take the first game of three in the series this season. Both teams are coming off of tough losses, and hope to get back on a winning streak this game.

SKY-LIGHTS

WELCOME BACK
Guard Courtney Vandersloot and center Astou Ndour recently joined the team after fulfilling their overseas basketball obligations to complete the Sky's final 12-man roster.

YOUNG TEAM
As one of the younger teams in the WNBA, the Sky calls on rookies to play some valuable minutes. Through veteran guidance and under the leadership of Coach Stocks, the Sky hopes to capitalize on its youth this season. Guard Linnae Harper is one of only two undrafted rookies in the league to make a final team roster.

BLOCKBUSTER TRADES
The Chicago Sky traded Tamera Young, Imani Boyette and a 2018 second-round pick to Atlanta for Jordan Hooper and the eventual No. 3 overall 2018 draft selection, which turned into Diamond DeShields.

OVERSEAS ACHIEVEMENTS
Quigley led Eurobasket in scoring with 20.8 points, 3.8 rebounds and 3.3 assists per game during the 2018 season. Courtney Vandersloot led Yakin Dogu's recent run in the Eurobasket playoffs.

FEED YOUR FOCUS
After this year's first meeting with Atlanta in the regular season, the Sky is ready to move on and improve. In the press conference after the game, Coach Stocks said that they've been talking about "starve your distractions and feed your focus." Leading by example, leaders like Allie Quigley and Alex Montgomery are helping the team stay focused on thier goals this season.

SKY PLAYOFF HISTORY
In 2013, the Chicago Sky faced off against longtime rival Indiana Fever in the Eastern Conference Semifinals. The following year, 2014, the Sky made it into the playoffs as the fourth seed in the Eastern Conference, sporting a 15-19 record. Anything can happen in the playoffs, and the Sky proved that. In the Eastern Conference Semifinals, the Sky knocked out the number one seeded Atlanta Dream 2-1 in a three game series. The Eastern Conference Finals featured a rematch of the previous year's Semifinal with the Sky taking on the Indiana Fever. This time it was the Sky who came out ahead, defeating Indiana 2-1 in a three game series. In the Sky's first ever WNBA Finals appearance they took on the Phoenix Mercury. The streak of playoff appearances continued into 2015 for the Sky. Finishing with a 21-13 record, Chicago came in as the number two seed. Their opponent in the Eastern Conference Semifinals was a familiar one in the Indiana Fever. The Sky made their fourth overall and fourth consecutive playoff appearance in franchise history in 2016.

AMBER STOCKS - GENERAL MANAGER AND HEAD COACH

Amber Stocks enters her second season as the GM & Head Coach for the Chicago Sky.

With Stocks' leadership, the 2017 team achieved many notable milestones and accomplishments. This stellar passing and shooting Sky team set a single season record with the Most Team Assists in WNBA history and finished the season ranked first in the league in team assists and 3PT FG%. The team oriented style-of-play that Stocks implemented in her inaugural season also set the stage for point guard Courtney Vandersloot to set a WNBA record with the highest single-season assist average in WNBA history. Injecting Allie Quigley into the starting lineup spurred a career best season for the guard, which included setting a Chicago Sky record for the most 3PT Field Goals Made in a season. For the first time in franchise history, the Sky produced 2 WNBA All-Stars in the same season with Quigley and Stefanie Dolson both earning All-Star status.

Stocks began by revamping the roster with a blockbuster trade that brought Dolson, Kahleah Copper and Alaina Coates (via acquisition of the 2017 #2 draft pick) to Chicago. Stocks continued to make bold roster moves that brought the Sky sharpshooter Jordan Hooper and an additional 2018 first-round draft pick. For the first time in franchise history, the Sky will had two lottery picks in the 2018 WNBA draft, and cashed in on Diamond DeShields and Gabby Williams.

A veteran coach and experienced player of over 20 years, Stocks came to the Sky after two successful seasons as an assistant coach for the Los Angeles Sparks. During her time with the Sparks, Stocks helped turn around a franchise that went 14-20 in 2015 to 26-8 in 2016. Stocks was key in scouting and game preparation, spurring the Sparks' run to 2016 WNBA Champions. In addition to her essential role in strategy preparation, Stocks was also responsible for coaching the LA frontcourt, which included the 2016 WNBA MVP, the 2016 6th Woman and the 2016 Finals MVP.

A long time collegiate women's basketball coach, Stocks has also taken her coaching expertise to television, appearing as a color analyst on ESPN 3, the Big East Digital Network and FoxSports. As a transition out of collegiate coaching, Stocks worked as the Program Director and Head Coach for the Tucson HEAT Basketball Association (2009-13) in Arizona.

Stocks spent seven seasons as an assistant coach at Xavier University (2002-06, 2007-09). During her tenure with the Musketeers, she assisted Kevin McGuff in putting together five 20-win seasons and six national post-season appearances. Prior to joining Xavier, Stocks spent two seasons on staff at the University of Tennessee (2000-2002), working closely with then Lady Vols head coach Pat Summitt. While at Tennessee, she was part of two regular season SEC Championships, the 2002 Final Four, and worked with an array of decorated Lady Vols and future WNBA standouts.

A four-year women's basketball letter winner at University of Cincinnati, Stocks was a four-time Bearcat Scholar honoree, three-time Defensive Player Award recipient and helped lead the Bearcats to a Conference USA Championship. She played 116 games in her career, making 99 starts from 1995-99, and finished her career in the record books for multiple categories including top five rankings in games played and three-point shots made. Also while at UC, Stocks was an All-Conference track
