NEW YORK LIBERTY

GAME NOTES

As of 8/14...

The New York Liberty (1-8) enter Saturday night's matchup against the Minnesota Lynx (6-3), looking for their second win of the season in the teams' second meeting of the year.

The Liberty are coming off an 86-79 loss to the Indiana Fever on August 13. New York fought back from a 16-point deficit to make it a one possession game late in the fourth.

New York's offense was led by Kia Nurse who recorded a game and season-high 21 points, going 11-12 (91.7%) from the free throw line. She also grabbed a season-high 6 rebounds on the night.

Layshia Clarendon scored 13 first half points. They ended the game with 20 points on 47.1% shooting. Layshia has now scored in double figures in 8 of the team's 9 games this season.

Thursday's 20-point performance put Clarendon in the WNBA's 1500-point club, making them the league's 155th player to reach the milestone.

Jazmine Jones totaled 11 points including 4 rebounds and 3 assists for the Liberty, which is her second consecutive game in double-digit scoring figures.

Kiah Stokes added a season-high 9 points, including a career-best 3 three-pointers made and a team-high 8 boards.

The Lynx are coming off a loss to the Las Vegas Aces, 87-77, on Thursday night.

Napheesa Collier was the Minnesota's leading scorer with a double-double of 21 points and 14 rebounds.

Rookie Crystal Dangerfield added 14 points and Kayla Alexander finished with 11 points in less than 12 minutes on the floor.

In Minnesota's win 92-66 over New York on August 5, 2020, the Liberty were led in scoring by Amanda Zahui B with 13 points (3-5 3PT), as well as Kia Nurse and Leaonna Odom who added 10 points each.

The Lynx secured the victory courtesy of a breakout game from second-year forward Bridget Carleton. Carleton finished with a career-high 25 points and 7 rebounds. Lexie Brown created havoc for New York on both ends of the floor, recording 15 points and 7 steals.

In the 2019 season series, Minnesota earned the advantage, winning two out of three over the Liberty.

In the all-time series between both franchises, the Lynx have a four-game lead over the Liberty with an overall record of 24-20 (.545).

NEW YORK VS. MINNESOTA STORYLINES

COACH SWAP REUNION (PART II)

Saturday's matchup against the Minnesota Lynx will be another reunion as the Liberty's first-year head coach Walt Hopkins and assistant coach Shelley Patterson were both on the Lynx bench before joining the Liberty this season. Hopkins spent three seasons in Minneapolis while Patterson spent nine seasons with Coach Reeves.

On Tuesday, Jan. 14, the Lynx announced that former Liberty head coach (2018-2019) Katie Smith would be returning to the franchise as an assistant coach. During her playing career in Minnesota, Smith earned five All-Star honors during her six and a half seasons, and carried the Lynx to their first playoff appearance in 2003.

In their first meeting of the season, Minnesota came out on top, 92-66, despite New York's first quarter lead.

NEW YORK'S STRONG DEFENSE

The Liberty's defense ranks amongst the top teams in the WNBA across multiple defensive categories. New York is currently second in opponent fast break points per game (3.3), second in blocks per game (4.1), third in defensive rebounds per game (26.4) and fifth in opponent points in the paint (32.7).

JAZMINE JONES HEATING UP

In Tuesday night's game against an experienced Los Angeles Sparks lineup, rookie Jazmine Jones provided the Liberty with a 24-point scoring effort off the bench. This was a career-high in points for Jones (previously 20 vs. ATL), and the Louisville alumna also nabbed a career-high 5 steals on the night; the most steals by a Liberty rookie since 2006.

Through her first 8 WNBA games, Jones is averaging 9.4 points, 2.9 rebounds, 1.9 assists and 1.3 steals per game. If she keeps up her consistent play on both sides of the floor, she could see herself tabbed to the WNBA's All-Rookie Team, which would be the first time a Liberty rookie has garnered the honor since 2015 (Kiah Stokes, Brittany Boyd, Ramu Tokashiki).

SHOOTERS SHOOT

Currently, the New York Liberty rank No. 1 overall in WNBA history with a three-point attempt rate of 42.2%. This stat is the ratio of field goal attempts from three divided by the total number of field goal attempts. Second to the Liberty is the 2019 WNBA Champion Washington Mystics with a percentage of 36.4%, followed by this year's Dallas Wings team with a rate of 36.1%.

RELYING ON REBOUNDS

The Liberty's frontcourt tandem of Amanda Zahui B and Kiah Stokes, who are averaging 8.6 and 7.6 rebounds per game apiece, has kept New York amongst the league's leaders in rebounds per game (34.7 - No. 3 overall).

ODOM'S MINUTES INCREASING

Rookie Leonna Odom has now started three consecutive games for the Liberty, and has totaled 191 minutes through her first 9 contests, which is the most of any New York rookie in 2020. Odom's addition to the starting lineup began on August 7 against the Washington Mystics, where she helped the Liberty to their first win of the season.

PARIS IN NEW YORK

On August 8, 2020, the New York Liberty signed free agent guard Paris Kea. Kea, a graduate of North Carolina, was drafted in the third round (25th overall) of the 2019 draft by the Indiana Fever. The 5-9 guard saw game action 11 times where she shot 55.6% from three and 40.7% from the field overall.

Paris should be eligible to join the Liberty for practices and games after completing the league's quarantine protocol when she arrives at the IMG Academy in Bradenton, Florida.

LIBERTY WITHOUT SABRINA IONESCU

Sabrina Ionescu suffered an ankle sprain in the game against Atlanta on July 31. A timeline for her return has not yet been determined by physicians.

LAYSHIA'S CONSISTENCY

Eight year veteran guard, Layshia Clarendon, has provided both leadership and consistency for this young Liberty lineup. Through the first nine games of the 2020 season, Clarendon is averaging 14.0 points and 4.8 assists per contest, eight of which they scored in double-digit figures.

FOCUS ON FREE THROWS

With an average of 20.0 attempts per game, New York is third in the league in free throw percentage with an average of 82.2. The Liberty have not finished a regular season averaging more than 80% from the charity stripe since 2005 (81.9%).

ROOKIE BENCH

With seven rookies this season and only two 2019 returners, New York is the second youngest team in the league behind Dallas.

NY LIBERTY X AFRICAN AMERICAN POLICY FORUM

To aid in the fight for Breonna Taylor and the several other black women victims of police violence, the New York Liberty will be donating $25,000 to the African American Policy Forum and the #SayHerName campaign. Launched in 2014, the #SayHerName campaign aims to “bring awareness to the often invisible names and stories of Black women and girls who have been victimized by racist police violence, and provides support to their families.”

LIBERTY TEAM UP WITH LI NETS, ST. JOHN’S UNIVERSITY TO CREATE SPORTS LAW AND CIVIL RIGHTS PROGRAM FOR HIGH SCHOOLERS

In addition to the team’s $25,000 donation to the African American Policy Forum and the #SayHerName campaign, the Liberty organization is also teaming up with the LI Nets and Ronald H. Brown Center for Civil Rights at St. John’s University School of Law to create an inaugural program for high school students focused primarily on sports law and civil rights.

The two-week program began on August 3 with the goal of educating a group of 20 students from Long Island and New York City on both sports law and their civil rights. Lesson plans focus on the business-side of the sports industry, and identify the synergies between sports law, entertainment law, labor and employment law, trademark law, and social justice. At the end of the program, the students will participate in a mock trial/arbitration experience.

The program is free to students, and will be an important alternative summer opportunity for those who are unable to work, participate in camps, sports, and other extracurricular activities due to COVID-19 this summer.

JUSTICE FOR BREONNA TAYLOR T-SHIRT CAMPAIGN

On August 10, the New York Liberty players, along with the rest of the WNBA, unveiled a new t-shirt during warmups from the Phenomenal Woman Action Campaign. The front of the shirt demands that the police officers who murdered Breonna Taylor be arrested, while the back of the shirt reads “Say Her Name,” along with a portrait of Taylor.

All proceeds from sales will be donated to the Breonna Taylor Foundation.

THE THREE AMIGAS

Liberty veterans Kiah Stokes, Amanda Zahui B, as well as a “baby vet” Kia Nurse, are roommates in the IMG Villas inside the Wubble. The three players recently launched a new video segment, “The Lounge,” which will document their experience as roommates throughout the 2020 season, as well as their time in Florida. The segment is entirely produced and edited by the group, and can be found across the Liberty’s social channels.

2020 STORYLINES

A NEW LOOK FOR THE FRANCHISE

Not only have the New York Liberty began to plant its roots in Brooklyn, but they will also have a new look doing it. On April 14, the organization released its new logo, signifying a new era in Liberty basketball. Prior to the release, the only logos to remained unchanged in professional basketball since 1996 were the Chicago Bulls, Los Angeles Sparks, Boston Celtics and New York Liberty.

A HISTORICAL 2020 WNBA DRAFT

For the first time in franchise history, New York held the No. 1 pick in the WNBA Draft. The team selected college basketball's most decorated player, Sabrina Ionescu. In trading Tina Charles, the team's franchise player of the last six seasons, New York acquired a franchise-record amount of draft picks in a three-team deal with the Washington Mystics and Dallas Wings. Going into draft night, the Liberty held the 1, 9, 12, 13, 15 and 26 picks.

After selecting Ionescu, the Liberty continued to win big in the 2020 WNBA Draft. In all, the Liberty snagged 4 of the top 12 draft picks, made six selections overall, and will open training camp with seven rookies on its 12-player roster. Joining Ionescu in New York's rookie revival are first-round selections Megan Walker (No. 9 pick), Jocelyn Willoughby (the No. 10 pick by Phoenix, who was then obtained by New York in a draft day trade), and Louisville's Jazmine Jones (No. 12). The Liberty also opens training camp with two rookies they snagged in the second-round - Kylee Shook (No. 13) and Leaonna Odom (No. 15) - and Joyner Holmes, the No. 19 pick by Seattle who was later waived and signed by the New York.

SABRINA IONESCU, FIRST OVERALL SELECTION

With its first-ever No.1 overall pick in the WNBA Draft, the New York Liberty selected Oregon guard, Sabrina Ionescu, on April 17. Ionescu will make the move from Eugene to Brooklyn after putting together one of the most decorated careers in college basketball history. The Walnut Creek, Calif. product finished her Oregon career with 2,562 points, 1,040 rebounds and 1,091 assists, making her the only player in NCAA history—male or female—with 2,000 points, 1,000 rebounds, and 1,000 assists.

HISTORY TO BE MADE

Through 23 seasons and 827 total games of franchise history, the New York Liberty has not seen a player record a triple-double. There have only been nine recorded throughout WNBA history, one of which occurred in the playoffs. Could Sabrina Ionescu, the NCAA all-time career leaders in triple-doubles with 26, be the first to do so for the Liberty?

WALT HOPKINS' HEAD COACHING DEBUT

First-year head coach, Walt Hopkins, will begin his journey not only with the New York Liberty, but also a WNBA head coach in 2020. Hopkins, who is the 8th coach in franchise history, will lead the Liberty into its new era after serving as an assistant coach for the Minnesota Lynx since 2017. During his three-year tenure with the Lynx, they made three-straight WNBA Playoff appearances, won the WNBA Championship in 2017, and had a combined overall record, including playoffs, of 69-43 (.616).

NEW BENCH

The Liberty will be under the direction of an entirely new coaching staff. Joining Hopkins is a strategic trio of assistant coaches who each bring unique skills and experiences to the Liberty. This includes 30-year coaching veteran Shelley Patterson, former WNBA champion and coach Kelly Raimon and player development specialist Dustin Gray.

2020 STORYLINES

NEW ERA, NEW YORK

While New York, one of only three remaining WNBA original teams, remains in search of its first championship, 2020 marks the beginning of a new era in Liberty history, one that will be highlighted by a new coach (Walt Hopkins), a new, potentially transcendent star (No. 1 overall draft pick Sabrina Ionescu), and a new logo/brand.

The Liberty were also set to move into a new home, The Barclays Center in Brooklyn, but that move will be put on hold as the entire WNBA convenes in Florida for the 2020 season. The new era actually tipped off last September when New York, after falling short of the playoffs for the second straight season, won the WNBA's Draft Lottery and the right to make the first selection in the 2020 draft.

LIBERTY FOR LIBERATION

New York Liberty players are no strangers to speaking out against injustice. In 2015, the team (Amanda Zahui B, Kiah Stokes, Rebecca Allen) staged a post-game media blackout and proclaimed that Black Lives Matter on their warm-up shirts in response to the killing of unarmed Black men and women at the hands of police. For the past four seasons, the team has created and activated a UNITY platform to provide solution based conversations around inequality.

This year is no different. The Liberty hosted a star-studded Juneteenth panel on freedom and the power of our vote featuring Breakfast Club host Angela Yee, Liberty guard and activist Layshia Clarendon, Nets swingman Garrett Temple, Grammy nominated artist Rapsody and social activist Topeka K Sam.

For Pride Month, the team activated virtually for a full week of events and celebrations with a focus on the intersectional experiences of the LGBTQIA+ community. With the league dedicating the 2020 season to social justice and Clarendon at the helm of the newly formed Social Justice Council, New York will continue in its fight for equality, freedom and justice.

ROSTER CHESS

Led by second-year general manager Jonathan Kolb, the Liberty's offseason involved a franchise reset highlighted by the addition of first-time head coach Walt Hopkins in January, the trade of franchise great Tina Charles to the Washington Mystics on April 15, and the selection of Sabrina Ionescu with the No. 1 overall pick.

SABRINA IONESCU. THAT'S THE TITLE.

The 2020 University of Oregon grad and commencement speaker was the NCAA's unanimous 2020 National Player of the Year and three-time Nancy Lieberman Award winner as nation's top point guard (2018-20). Ionescu is the NCAA's leader in career triple-doubles (26) and has a highly-decorated resume that also includes the 2020 Naismith Citizen Trophy, 2020 Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year, Two-time Wade Trophy winner, Two-time Wooden Award winner, and Three-time Pac-12 Player of the Year.

UNCONVENTIONAL TIMES

Guards Rebecca Allen, Marine Johannés, forward Stephanie Talbot and center Han Xu will not join the team at the single-site at IMG Academy, due to the uncertain times currently facing the world.

2020 STORYLINES

STOKED TO BE BACK IN SEAFOAM

After missing the 2019 WNBA season, 6-3 center, Kiah Stokes, makes her return to the New York Liberty frontcourt. Drafted in the 1st Round of the 2015 WNBA Draft (11th overall), Stokes has averaged 20.8 minutes, 5.1 points, 6.1 rebounds and 1.3 blocks per game through four seasons with the Liberty. She also holds several franchise records including most blocks in Liberty history (163), blocks in a game (8), blocks in a season (67), the second-most rookie average rebounds per game (6.4), and is tied for the third-most rebounds in a single-game (17).

KIA NURSE, FROM ROOKIE TO VET IN A NEW YORK MINUTE

After a breakout second-season in 2019, where she ranked 16th in the league in points per game (13.6), as well as being named an AT&T WNBA All-Star starter, Kia Nurse quickly finds herself with the most experience in the Liberty's backcourt. Nurse, 24, made her WNBA debut just two short seasons ago, and will now be looked upon as a veteran presence on both sides of the ball for this young New York lineup.

This past March, Kia was named the WNBL MVP after she led the Canberra Capitals to the 2020 championship in Australia, while averaging 21.3 points per game plus 4.1 rebounds and 2.9 assists.

STYLE OF PLAY

Over the past few months, both Walt Hopkins and general manager Jonathan Kolb, have been interviewed at length regarding how the 2020 New York Liberty team will play. Stylistically, both of them share a vision for the Liberty that entails speed, versatility, efficient decision-making, high-percentage attempts, and stretching the floor with long-range shooting.

Throughout the draft process, Hopkins and Kolb addressed selecting prospects who are not only talented, but are also high-character people who possess a team-first mentality. They believe that they now have the right pieces in place to establish a winning culture that reintroduces the Liberty as contenders for years to come.

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

The New York Liberty's average player age is currently 24.45 years old (without Asia Durr), which is the second- youngest in the WNBA. Between the young core of returners and the addition of seven rookies, the Liberty are poised to grow and develop as a cohesive unit.

WELCOME TO THE LIBERTY, LAYSHIA!

New York signed guard Layshia Clarendon at the start of the WNBA open free agency period. Clarendon, a seven-year WNBA veteran, was drafted 9th overall by the Indiana Fever in 2013 where they spent three seasons. The 5-9 guard then logged over two years in the Atlanta Dream's backcourt where she led the WNBA in assists in 2017. In the second-half of 2018, Layshia was traded to the Connecticut Sun where they spent the rest of the season, as well as 2019 where the Sun reached the WNBA Finals. Over the course of her career, Clarendon has averaged 6.9 points, 2.9 assists and 2.7 rebounds per game over 198 total regular-season contests, also seeing action in 21 playoff games.

Their valuable leadership is not limited to the hardwood, as Layshia is an active member and advocate for the LGBTQIA+ community, and continues to shed light on social issues in our society. They embody the very meaning of #BrooklynLoud, and was one of the key figures in shaping the league's new collective bargaining agreement as First Vice President of the WNBA Player's Association. Clarendon is also a member of the recently formed WNBA Social Justice Council.

NEW YORK LIBERTY X FANDUEL

On April 9, 2020, The New York Liberty and FanDuel Group announced a partnership designating FanDuel as an “Official Partner” of the New York Liberty.

The deal, which marks the Liberty’s first marquee partnership since 2018, includes marquee placement of the FanDuel logo on the team’s home and away jerseys.

FanDuel Group was the first gaming company to offer an official one-day fantasy offering for the WNBA in 2017, which also marked the company’s first partnership with a women’s professional sports league.

A TRUE BROOKLYN FAMILY

With Joe Tsai now the total owner of both the New York Liberty and Brooklyn Nets, both teams are operating under one roof at Barclays Center and BSE Global.

In less than a year, there has already been great collaboration between the teams and front offices. The Nets have embraced the Liberty as a part of their family, and their talented roster of players are committed to supporting the Liberty’s reemergence into the New York City professional basketball landscape. As the Notorious B.I.G said, “the sky’s the limit,” for the future of both organizations.

KICKIN’ IT WITH KIA NURSE

In addition to her broadcasting work with TSN, Toronto’s leading sports network, Kia Nurse has been actively building her future career within the sports media industry.

On April 29, 2020, the New York Liberty announced the start of a new, weekly Instagram Live series— “Kickin’ It with Kia Nurse.” The series featured conversations between Liberty All-Star guard, Kia Nurse, with current players, recent draftees, Liberty executives, and more!

The episodes received great engagement during the quarantine, and provided Liberty fans with a unique opportunity to get to know Kia Nurse and their other favorite players better.

LUCKY NO. 7

2020 may be the year of 7’s for the New York Liberty. Layshia Clarendon, who is sporting the No. 7 for the first time in her WNBA career, is also entering her 7th season in the league. The Liberty also have seven total rookies on the roster. In addition, the coaching staff has a total of seven WNBA championships combined between their coaching and playing careers

Kelly Raimon (Phoenix, Detroit)- 2

THERE’S ONLY ONE ‘I’ IN THE W

Random Fact: Sabrina Ionescu is the only active WNBA player with a last name starting with the letter ‘I’.

LOUISVILLE OF THE NORTH

After selecting former Louisville guard, Asia Durr, second overall in the 2019 WNBA Draft, the Liberty continued to add more Cardinals to their roster in 2020. With the 12th and 13th overall picks, the Liberty drafted guard Jazmine Jones and forward Kylee Shook from U of L. Durr logged three years with both Jones and Shook, and all three players graduated as a part of the winningest class in program history at the end of their respective collegiate careers.

Jones, a 6-0 guard, totaled 1,178 points on 477 field goals (52.4%), 559 rebounds and 314 assists during her four years under head coach Jeff Walz. She finished as the program's all-time leader in games played with 144.

Shook, a 6-4 forward, totaled 948 points on 393 field goals (47.6%), 89 three-pointers (38.2%), 724 rebounds and 223 blocks over her four-year career. She was named the 2019-2020 ACC Defensive Player of the Year and finished her career as Louisville's all-time leader in blocked shots.

Asia Durr, will not be suiting up for the New York Liberty in 2020 as she was medically excused for this season. However, this Cardinal trio will be reunited in 2021.
