ONE WIN AWAY

Despite the Sparks setback against Chicago on Sunday afternoon, L.A. still finds itself just one victory away from a berth in the WNBA Finals. After defeating the Sky by double-digit margins in each of the teams' first two Semifinals games, Chicago locked down on defense to earn the 70-66 victory on Sunday. Only two Sparks players scored in double-figures for the game, which has only happened in 4 of the team's 37 games combined games between the regular season and postseason. L.A. only scored six points off the bench, with all six coming from Sixth Woman of the Year Jantel Lavender. The Sparks eight-point third quarter was its lowest-scoring output in any quarter this year, one of many offensive struggles they will attempt to improve upon tonight.

STRUGGLES FROM THREE-POINT RANGE

Although the Sparks led the WNBA in three-point shooting throughout the regular season at 37.5%, L.A. ranks seventh out of eight teams in the postseason with a 29.7% clip from beyond the arc in the postseason. The Sparks difficulties from deep were evident in Sunday's loss to Chicago, as L.A. knocked down only 6-of-33 three-point attempts on the night, good for a 18.2% mark. The 33 three-point attempts were 12 more than they attempted in any game during the regular season, and their 27 missed three-pointers were a season-worst. 7 of the Sparks 8 players who saw the floor missed a three-pointer in the game. Chicago has allowed just a 31.9% clip from beyond the arc in the postseason, which the Sparks sharpshooters will attempt to offset when they hit the floor for tonight's Game 4 of the WNBA Semifinals.

ROAD WOES

The Sparks struggled in its final road game of the 2016 regular season, falling to the Seattle Storm on 9/11 by a score of 78-60. L.A.'s 60 points were its fewest in any game this year, as the Sparks knocked down just 37.7% of its field goal attempts on the night. Things didn't get much better in L.A.'s first road postseason game, as the Sparks fell 70-66 to the Chicago Sky on Sunday afternoon. Los Angeles made just 6-of-33 three-point attempts on the night, including 3-of-20 attempts from beyond the arc in the second half. For the game, the Sparks made only 36.6% of its field goal attempts, after scoring 90+ points in each of its first two playoff contests with Chicago.

WONDER WOMAN WINS MVP

Nneka Ogumike has been a leader for the Sparks all season, leading the team in scoring (19.7 ppg) and rebounding (9.1 rpg) while shooting the second-best field goal percentage in WNBA history (66.5%) on the year. Her incredible season was rewarded with the WNBA's MVP award, as Ogumike became the sixth Sparks player to earn the honor in the league's 20th season. No other team has more MVP winners than Los Angeles, with the Houston Comets (4) and Seattle Storm (3) ranking behind them. Ogumike didn't have much time to soak in the MVP honors before taking the court Wednesday, as the four-year veteran put together a personal playoff-high of 27 points on 11-of-14 shooting in the victory against the Sky. So far in the postseason, she has averaged a team-high 22.3 points per game to go along with 8.3 rebounds and 3.7 assists.

Los Angeles does not have a clear-cut next opponent as they currently lead the Chicago Sky 2-1 in the WNBA Semifinals, meaning a win tonight would advance them to the WNBA Finals. The Sparks have won five of six meetings to this point in the year, including two wins away from STAPLES Center. The Sparks led the league in field goal percentage with a clip of 48.7% during the regular season, while the Sky ranked 3rd in the league at 46.2%. While Los Angeles also led the WNBA with 20.4 assists per game, Chicago averaged 18.2 assists per game which ranks 5th in the league. The Sky do hold an advantage in scoring, as Chicago led the league with 86.2 points per game, while Los Angeles sat at 4th with 83.0.

JANTEL THE IRONWOMAN

Forward Jantel Lavender earned the Sixth Woman of the Year award for her strong performance in 2016, averaging 9.6 points per game on the season. She was the only player on the Sparks roster to have started and played in all 34 games during both the 2015 and 2016 seasons - the first and second times in her career to start in every game played. Considered the team's Iron Woman, Lavender has played 173 consecutive regular season games - the most in franchise history. This season, she led the Sparks in scoring twice, rebounding twice, assists and steals once, and blocks 8 times while also notching one double-double on the year.

#RAINMAKER

Sparks guard Kristi Toliver finished the WNBA regular season as the only player in the league to make at least one three-pointer in every game played. In 33 games, Toliver knocked down 81 three-pointers, a new season-best for the veteran guard. The #rainmaker ranked fourth in the WNBA with a clip of 42.4% from three-point range, while the 81 shots she knocked down from beyond the arc ranked 3rd amongst WNBA players. Toliver's 13.2 points per game was the third-highest point total of her career, while her 3.7 assists per game were tied for the third-most of her career.

NNEKA'S HISTORICAL SEASON

Sparks forward Nneka Ogumike had one of the most memorable seasons in WNBA history, finishing second in league history with a 66.5% field goal percentage in the regular season. Ogumike led all Sparks players with 19.7 points per game and 9.1 rebounds per game, both career-highs for the fifth-year veteran out of Stanford. Ogumike recorded 16 double-doubles on the year, the second-most of any player in 2016. The veteran forward also shot better than 50.0% in 29 of her 33 games, as evidence of her consistency throughout the regular season. Ogumike scored in double-figures in all but three of her games this season, the most double-digit scoring games of any Sparks player.

2016 MILESTONES

The 2016 regular season was a record-setting campaign for several Sparks players, as L.A. tallied a 26-8 record and earned the No. 2 seed in the postseason. Brian Agler earned the 200th victory of his WNBA coaching career in a May 20 victory over the Washington Mystics, becoming one of only 7 coaches to accomplish the feat. Forward Nneka Ogumike set many personal records in 2016, but also obtained a WNBA record by knocking down all 12 of her field goal attempts and all 7 of her free throw attempts, becoming the first player to make at least 12 field goals without a miss in WNBA history. Ogumike didn't stop there, putting together 23 consecutive made baskets over the course of three games, also a league record. L.A. also tied a franchise record by overcoming a 22-point deficit to defeat Dallas on 6/28.

CHELSEA'S BIG WEEK

Although the Sparks struggled through three losses in its final five games of the regular season, guard Chelsea Gray played some of her best basketball in that stretch. Most recently, the second-year guard poured in 13 points in her regular season finale against San Antonio on 9/16, after previously tallying a career-high 23 points against Phoenix on 9/13, knocking down 8-of-10 field goal attempts on the night. That wasn't all for the former Duke star, as Gray had scored 13 points on 9/11 in Seattle, while also putting together a 16-point performance on 9/8 against Atlanta and a 20-point night against Minnesota on 9/6. Gray was the Sparks leading scorer for the first time all season in the 9/6 game, and tied a season-high with two made three-pointers in three of the five games. Gray scored in double-figures in five consecutive games for the first time all season, including the first two 20-point performances of her career.

MOVING UP IN THE RECORD BOOKS

Two-time WNBA All-Star Kristi Toliver recorded her 3000th career point against the Indiana Fever on September 4th. That wasn't Kristi's only historical mark of the season, though, as Toliver also knocked down the 400th three-pointer of her professional career on August 28th in Phoenix. Only 15 other players have knocked down 400 three-pointers in WNBA history, as Toliver currently sits at 15th on the all-time list with 416 made threes in her eight-year career. Toliver now sits 10 three-pointers behind Crystal Robinson for the No. 14 spot on the all-time list. She shot the deep ball as well as ever before, knocking down 42.4% of her attempts from beyond the arc, tied for the highest clip of her career. The 5'7 guard had the third-most made three-pointers in the league this season (81), 17 more than her previous high in any season, when she knocked down 64 in 2012. She has knocked down at least one three-pointer in each game she has played this year, including the postseason.

CLOSING IT OUT STRONG

The Los Angeles Sparks finalized their regular season with a victory over San Antonio, finishing with a 4-0 record against the Stars on the season. In its four contests with San Antonio, L.A. allowed an average of 62.0 points per game, its fewest against any opponent this year. The Sparks wrapped up 2016 with a 14-3 record on its home court, which it utilized in its first round home-court victories against the Chicago Sky in the WNBA semifinals.

PROTECTING THE ROCK

One reason the Sparks dropped seven of its final 13 regular season games was L.A.'s inability to hold onto the ball in those losses. In those seven recent losses, the Sparks averaged 14.5 turnovers per game, a mark that would rank second-worst in the league in an entire season. On the year, Los Angeles averaged 13.6 turnovers per game, the fourth-fewest in the WNBA. The Sparks were 15-3 in games where it had fewer turnovers than its opponent, compared to an 11-5 mark in all other regular season games. In its September 16th win against the San Antonio Stars, the Sparks tied a season-high with 23 turnovers on the night, a trend they had improved upon in its previous seven games, with only 73 combined turnovers in the contests.

DEFENSIVE DIFFICULTIES

Despite featuring the league's top scoring defense on the year with an average of 75.9 points per game allowed, Los Angeles struggled to slow its opponents down recently. Overall, the Sparks lost seven of its final 13 regular season games, allowing an average of 78.4 points per game in those contests. While that doesn't stand out compared to its overall defensive numbers, L.A. allowed 5 of those 13 teams to cross the 80-point mark.

BRINGING DOWN THE BOARDS

Los Angeles ranked just 10th in the WNBA with 31.5 rebounds per game, but the Sparks won or tied in the rebounding battle in 10 of its final 14 games regular season games. Despite the team's overall rebounding struggles, both Nneka Ogumike (9.1/3rd) and Candace Parker (7.4/7th) sit amongst the league leaders. In games where the Sparks outrebounded opponents, L.A. had a 12-3 record, compared to a 14-5 clip in all other games.

IN CONTROL FROM DEEP

The Sparks had tremendous success controlling the three-point line this season, shooting 37.5% from beyond the arc, which leads the league, led by sharpshooters Kristi Toliver (42.4/4th) and Candace Parker (38.2/10th). Overall, 9 of the 12 Sparks players knocked down a three-pointer in the regular season. Los Angeles was also the league's best team in terms of defending the three-point line, allowing opponents to shoot just 30.5% from deep. No other team in the WNBA ranked in the top-three in three-point shooting on both offense and defense.

ATOP THE LEADERBOARD

Nneka Ogumike finished the year at 3rd in points per game with her mark of 19.7, while teammate Candace Parker wasn't far behind with 15.3 points per game, 10th in the league. Kristi Toliver also found herself in the top 20, sitting at 19th in the league with 13.2 points per game. Los Angeles was one of only two teams with three top-20 scorers in the league, showing the Sparks emphasis on offensive balance. Ogumike (66.5%/1st), Jantel Lavender (53.8%/10th) and Essence Carson (44.9%/25th) also ranked in the top-25 of the WNBA, shooting some of the highest percentages in the league. In regards to the three-point shot, Toliver (42.4%/4th) and Parker (38.2%/10th) each wound up in the top-10 from beyond the arc. Not only did Parker and Toliver score at a high level, but the two Sparks' veterans shared the ball as well, both ranking in the top-15 of assists with 4.9 and 3.7 assists, respectively. While the Sparks were one of the lowest-rebounding teams in the WNBA, Ogumike finished with 9.1 boards per contest, good for 3rd in the league.

On January 5, 2015, Brian Agler joined the Los Angeles Sparks as the 12th head coach in franchise history, bringing with him over 30 years of head-coaching experience, including 11 in the WNBA.

In his first season with LA and 12th in the WNBA, Agler led the Sparks to a league-best 15th postseason appearance, finishing 4th in the Western Conference standings (14-20). The all-time winningest coach in women's professional basketball history, Agler enters the 2016 season two wins shy of 200 career WNBA (198) regular season wins to go along with his 78 wins in the ABL.

Agler came to the Sparks from Seattle, where he led the Storm to six consecutive playoff appearances (2008-2013) in seven years. He compiled a 136-102 (.571) record during his time in the Pacific Northwest, including his 212th career (WNBA and ABL) victory in 2012. The win on June 1 against the Tulsa Shock moved him past Van Chancellor (211), former coach of the Houston Comets, to become the all-time winningest coach in women's professional basketball.

In 2010 the Storm captured the league's championship title, its second, with an impressive regular season record of 28-6 and an undefeated playoff record of 7-0. Additionally, Coach Agler was recognized as the WNBA's Coach of the Year. Prior to joining the Storm in 2008, Agler was the head coach and general manager of the expansion team Minnesota Lynx from 1999-2002, where he compiled a 42-54 (.438) record. Before being named the first coach of the expansion Lynx, Agler served as the head coach of the Columbus Quest of the ABL from 1996-1999, compiling an 82-22 record. He led the Quest to back-to-back ABL championships in 1997 and 1998 and was named the ABL Coach of the Year for the 1996-97 season.

Agler completed his third season as an assistant coach for the San Antonio Silver Stars in 2007. Prior to joining San Antonio, he served as an assistant coach with the Phoenix Mercury in 2004 and helped guide the team to a 17-17 record after the Mercury finished with an 8-26 record in 2003.

Agler spent 15 seasons coaching among the collegiate ranks, including 13 seasons as a head coach. He posted an impressive collegiate record of 248-135 (.648 winning percentage). From 1993-96 he served as the head women's basketball coach at Kansas State. In 1998, Agler took over as the head women's coach at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. In five seasons at UMKC, Agler was 85-54 and took the Kangaroos from a 9-16 record in 1988-89 to four straight winning seasons with 17 or more victories.

As the head women's basketball coach at Northeast Oklahoma A&M Junior College from 1984-88, Agler compiled a 124-42 record (.747 winning percentage). In 1985-86, NEO A&M was ranked second nationally and posted a 30-2 record.

Agler attended Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio, where he starred on the basketball team for four seasons. He led the Tigers to their only NCAA Division III Championship in basketball as a freshman. He started all 112 games during his college career, leaving the school as the all-time assist leader (481). Agler helped lead his team to a 91-21 record during his four years with the Tigers, and was named most valuable player in the Ohio Athletic Conference and first-team All-America as a senior. In 1995, he was inducted into the Wittenberg Hall of Honor.
