STATEMENT MADE

Los Angeles and Minnesota have played each other incredibly tough in 2016, with each team having two wins in the four games played (regular season and postseason). The Sparks were able to emerge victorious in Game 1 of the WNBA Finals, utilizing a buzzer-beating jumper from Alana Beard to pull out the road victory. Incredibly, the game featured 19 ties and 10 lead changes, by far the most in any Sparks game this season. Neither team led by more than five points, showing the back-and-forth nature of the WNBA's most dominant teams. So far this year, the road team has won all four of their matchups, with three of the four games being decided by three points or less. The Sparks will look to continue their road success tonight, as they go for their third straight victory away from home before returning to Staples Center on Friday for Game 3.

MAKE 'EM WHEN THEY COUNT

While Sparks guard Alana Beard might not have had the most eye-popping stat line (4 pts, 2-for-5 shooting, 4 rebs, 2 assists, 2 steals, 2 blocks) from Sunday's WNBA Finals victory over Minnesota, her second made basket ended up being the most important shot of the season for the Sparks. After Minnesota tied the game with 24.7 seconds left in the 4th quarter, Chelsea Gray let the clock run down under five seconds before delivering a bullet pass to Beard for the game-winning shot. It was the Sparks first buzzer-beater of the 2016 season.

STIFLING THE SHARPSHOOTERS

While the Sparks haven't dominated from three-point range in the postseason (34.3%/4th) like they did in the regular season (37.5%/1st), L.A. has continued to stifle its opponents from beyond the arc. Through five postseason games, the Sparks have allowed its foes to knock down 16.1% of three-point attempts. On two separate occasions (including Sunday's win at Minnesota), L.A. has prevented its opponent from making one three-pointer in the entire game, and in two other contests its opponent made just one three-pointer. The Sparks were the best team in terms of defending the three during the regular season, allowing just 30.5% of attempts from deep, but have dialed up the intensity even further in the postseason. During the regular season, Chicago ranked 2nd in the WNBA with a 36.8% clip from the field, but made just 5-of-27 three-point attempts in the four-game series with L.A. Minnesota missed all four of its three-point attempts in Sunday's WNBA Finals loss.

KRISTI IN THE RECORD BOOKS...AGAIN

2016 has been a year full of records for Sparks guard Kristi Toliver, who set a career-high with 81 made three-pointers while also recording her 3000th career point in the WNBA during the regular season. Toliver continued to break records in the postseason with her performance in Tuesday night's victory over the Sky, scoring 21 points with a perfect stat line of 5-for-5 from the field, 4-for-4 from three-point range and 7-for-7 from the free throw line. The veteran guard became the first WNBA player to accomplish the feat, as no player had made that many shot attempts without a miss in a playoff game in league history. Toliver's four made three-pointers on Tuesday were also a personal playoff-best for the sharp-shooting guard.

Los Angeles and Minnesota are set to face-off for at least one more games as the WNBA Finals continue tonight, with the Sparks currently leading 1-0 in the series. The Lynx won two of three meetings during the regular season, with both wins coming at STAPLES Center. The Sparks led the league in field goal percentage with a clip of 48.7% during the regular season, while the Lynx ranked 3rd in the league at 46.2%. While Los Angeles also led the WNBA with 20.4 assists per game, Minnesota averaged 20.0, which ranked second in the league. The Lynx scored the second-most points in the WNBA during the regular season, averaging 85.8 points per game, while the Sparks finished at 4th with 83.0 points per game.

JANTEL THE IRONWOMAN

Forward Jantel Lavender earned the Sixth Woman of the Year award for her strong performance in 2016, averaging 9.6 points per game on the season. She was the only player on the Sparks roster to have started and played in all 34 games during both the 2015 and 2016 seasons - the first and second times in her career to start in every game played. Considered the team's Iron Woman, Lavender has played 173 consecutive regular season games - the most in franchise history. This season, she led the Sparks in scoring twice, rebounding twice, assists and steals once, and blocks 8 times while also notching one double-double on the year.

#RAINMAKER

Sparks guard Kristi Toliver finished the WNBA regular season as the only player in the league to make at least one three-pointer in every game played. In 33 games, Toliver knocked down 81 three-pointers, a new season-best for the veteran guard. The #rainmaker ranked fourth in the WNBA with a clip of 42.4% from three-point range, while the 81 shots she knocked down from beyond the arc ranked 3rd amongst WNBA players. Toliver's 13.2 points per game was the third-highest point total of her career, while her 3.7 assists per game were tied for the third-most of her career.

NNEKA'S HISTORICAL SEASON

Sparks forward Nneka Ogumike had one of the most memorable seasons in WNBA history, finishing second in league history with a 66.5% field goal percentage in the regular season. Ogumike led all Sparks players with 19.7 points per game and 9.1 rebounds per game, both career-highs for the fifth-year veteran out of Stanford. Ogumike recorded 16 double-doubles on the year, the second-most of any player in 2016. The veteran forward also shot better than 50.0% in 29 of her 33 games, as evidence of her consistency throughout the regular season. Ogumike scored in double-figures in all but three of her games this season, the most double-digit scoring games of any Sparks player.

WONDER WOMAN WINS MVP

Nneka Ogumike has been a leader for the Sparks all season, leading the team in scoring (19.7 ppg) and rebounding (9.1 rpg) while shooting the second-best field goal percentage in WNBA history (66.5%) on the year. Her incredible season was rewarded with the WNBA's MVP award, as Ogumike became the sixth Sparks player to earn the honor in the league's 20th season. No other team has more MVP winners than Los Angeles, with the Houston Comets (4) and Seattle Storm (3) ranking behind them. Ogumike didn't have much time to soak in the MVP honors before taking the court Wednesday, as the four-year veteran put together a personal playoff-high of 27 points on 11-of-14 shooting in the victory against the Sky. So far in the postseason, she has averaged a team-high 22.3 points per game to go along with 8.3 rebounds and 3.7 assists.

CHELSEA'S BIG WEEK

Although the Sparks struggled through three losses in its final five games of the regular season, guard Chelsea Gray played some of her best basketball in that stretch. Most recently, the second-year guard poured in 13 points in her regular season finale against San Antonio on 9/16, after previously tallying a career-high 23 points against Phoenix on 9/13, knocking down 8-of-10 field goal attempts on the night. That wasn't all for the former Duke star, as Gray had scored 13 points on 9/11 in Seattle, while also putting together a 16-point performance on 9/8 against Atlanta and a 20-point night against Minnesota on 9/6. Gray was the Sparks leading scorer for the first time all season in the 9/6 game, and tied a season-high with two made three-pointers in three of the five games. Gray scored in double-figures in five consecutive games for the first time all season, including the first two 20-point performances of her career.

MOVING UP IN THE RECORD BOOKS

Two-time WNBA All-Star Kristi Toliver recorded her 3000th career point against the Indiana Fever on September 4th. That wasn't Kristi's only historical mark of the season, though, as Toliver also knocked down the 400th three-pointer of her professional career on August 28th in Phoenix. Only 15 other players have knocked down 400 three-pointers in WNBA history, as Toliver currently sits at 15th on the all-time list with 416 made threes in her eight-year career. Toliver now sits 10 three-pointers behind Crystal Robinson for the No. 14 spot on the all-time list. She shot the deep ball as well as ever before, knocking down 42.4% of her attempts from beyond the arc, tied for the highest clip of her career. The 5'7 guard had the third-most made three-pointers in the league this season (81), 17 more than her previous high in any season, when she knocked down 64 in 2012. She has knocked down at least one three-pointer in each game she has played this year, including the postseason.

CLOSING IT OUT STRONG

The Los Angeles Sparks finalized their regular season with a victory over San Antonio, finishing with a 4-0 record against the Stars on the season. In its four contests with San Antonio, L.A. allowed an average of 62.0 points per game, its fewest against any opponent this year. The Sparks wrapped up 2016 with a 14-3 record on its home court, which it utilized in its first round home-court victories against the Chicago Sky in the WNBA semifinals.

PROTECTING THE ROCK

One reason the Sparks dropped seven of its final 13 regular season games was L.A.'s inability to hold onto the ball in those losses. In those seven recent losses, the Sparks averaged 14.5 turnovers per game, a mark that would rank second-worst in the league in an entire season. On the year, Los Angeles averaged 13.6 turnovers per game, the fourth-fewest in the WNBA. The Sparks were 15-3 in games where it had fewer turnovers than its opponent, compared to an 11-5 mark in all other regular season games. In its September 16th win against the San Antonio Stars, the Sparks tied a season-high with 23 turnovers on the night, a trend they had improved upon in its previous seven games, with only 73 combined turnovers in the contests.

DEFENSIVE DIFFICULTIES

Despite featuring the league's top scoring defense on the year with an average of 75.9 points per game allowed, Los Angeles struggled to slow its opponents down recently. Overall, the Sparks lost seven of its final 13 regular season games, allowing an average of 78.4 points per game in those contests. While that doesn't stand out compared to its overall defensive numbers, L.A. allowed 5 of those 13 teams to cross the 80-point mark.

BRINGING DOWN THE BOARDS

Los Angeles ranked just 10th in the WNBA with 31.5 rebounds per game, but the Sparks won or tied in the rebounding battle in 10 of its final 14 games regular season games. Despite the team's overall rebounding struggles, both Nneka Ogumike (9.1/3rd) and Candace Parker (7.4/7th) sit amongst the league leaders. In regular season games that the Sparks outrebounded opponents, L.A. had a 12-3 record, compared to a 14-5 clip in other games.

IN CONTROL FROM DEEP

The Sparks had tremendous success controlling the three-point line this season, shooting 37.5% from beyond the arc, which leads the league, led by sharpshooters Kristi Toliver (42.4/4th) and Candace Parker (38.2/10th). Overall, 9 of the 12 Sparks players knocked down a three-pointer in the regular season. Los Angeles was also the league's best team in terms of defending the three-point line, allowing opponents to shoot just 30.5% from deep. No other team in the WNBA ranked in the top-three in three-point shooting on both offense and defense.

ATOP THE LEADERBOARD

Nneka Ogumike finished the year at 3rd in points per game with her mark of 19.7, while teammate Candace Parker wasn't far behind with 15.3 points per game, 10th in the league. Kristi Toliver also found herself in the top 20, sitting at 19th in the league with 13.2 points per game. Los Angeles was one of only two teams with three top-20 scorers in the league, showing the Sparks emphasis on offensive balance. Ogumike (66.5%/1st), Jantel Lavender (53.8%/10th) and Essence Carson (44.9%/25th) also ranked in the top-25 of the WNBA, shooting some of the highest percentages in the league. In regards to the three-point shot, Toliver (42.4%/4th) and Parker (38.2%/10th) each wound up in the top-10 from beyond the arc. Not only did Parker and Toliver score at a high level, but the two Sparks' veterans shared the ball as well, both ranking in the top-15 of assists with 4.9 and 3.7 assists, respectively. While the Sparks were one of the lowest-rebounding teams in the WNBA, Ogumike finished with 9.1 boards per contest, good for 3rd in the league.

HEAD COACH BRIAN AGLER (2nd Season)

On January 5, 2015, Brian Agler joined the Los Angeles Sparks as the 12th head coach in franchise history, bringing with him over 30 years of head-coaching experience, including 11 in the WNBA.

In his first season with LA and 12th in the WNBA, Agler led the Sparks to a league-best 15th postseason appearance, finishing 4th in the Western Conference standings (14-20). The all-time winningest coach in women's professional basketball history, Agler enters the 2016 season two wins shy of 200 career WNBA (198) regular season wins to go along with his 78 wins in the ABL.

Agler came to the Sparks from Seattle, where he led the Storm to six consecutive playoff appearances (2008-2013) in seven years. He compiled a 136-102 (.571) record during his time in the Pacific Northwest, including his 212th career (WNBA and ABL) victory in 2012. The win on June 1 against the Tulsa Shock moved him past Van Chancellor (211), former coach of the Houston Comets, to become the all-time winningest coach in women's professional basketball.

In 2010 the Storm captured the league's championship title, its second, with an impressive regular season record of 28-6 and an undefeated playoff record of 7-0. Additionally, Coach Agler was recognized as the WNBA's Coach of the Year. Prior to joining the Storm in 2008, Agler was the head coach and general manager of the expansion team Minnesota Lynx from 1999-2002, where he compiled a 42-54 (.438) record. Before being named the first coach of the expansion Lynx, Agler served as the head coach of the Columbus Quest of the ABL from 1996-1999, compiling an 82-22 record. He led the Quest to back-to-back ABL championships in 1997 and 1998 and was named the ABL Coach of the Year for the 1996-97 season.

Agler completed his third season as an assistant coach for the San Antonio Silver Stars in 2007. Prior to joining San Antonio, he served as an assistant coach with the Phoenix Mercury in 2004 and helped guide the team to a 17-17 record after the Mercury finished with an 8-26 record in 2003.

Agler spent 15 seasons coaching among the collegiate ranks, including 13 seasons as a head coach. He posted an impressive collegiate record of 248-135 (.648 winning percentage). From 1993-96 he served as the head women's basketball coach at Kansas State. In 1998, Agler took over as the head women's coach at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. In five seasons at UMKC, Agler was 85-54 and took the Kangaroos from a 9-16 record in 1988-89 to four straight winning seasons with 17 or more victories.

As the head women's basketball coach at Northeast Oklahoma A&M Junior College from 1984-88, Agler compiled a 124-42 record (.747 winning percentage). In 1985-86, NEO A&M was ranked second nationally and posted a 30-2 record.

Agler attended Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio, where he starred on the basketball team for four seasons. He led the Tigers to their only NCAA Division III Championship in basketball as a freshman. He started all 112 games during his college career, leaving the school as the all-time assist leader (481). Agler helped lead his team to a 91-21 record during his four years with the Tigers, and was named most valuable player in the Ohio Athletic Conference and first-team All-America as a senior. In 1995, he was inducted into the Wittenberg Hall of Honor.
