SKY-LIGHTS

ALL-STAR 3-POINT COMPETITION HISTORY

Guard Allie Quigley made her second All-Star appearance on July 28. In true All-Star fashion, she wowed fans and players alike with her dazzling performance in the 3-point contest. Quigley made 20 of the 25 shots beyond the arc in the overtime shootout for a record-breaking 29 points, the most in a 3-point contest across the NBA and WNBA. She was also tied with Lynx guard Maya Moore for leading-scorer on Team Parker in the 119-112 victory over Team Delle Donne.

MAKING HISTORY

In the Sky's game on June 29, Courtney Vandersloot dished out 11 assists to move her into 14th in WNBA history for assists, passing Vickie Johnson. Coming into the game, she had 1200 assists and only needed six more to move up. Since that game, Vandersloot has moved to No. 12 all-time assist leader, and is 2 assists from being 10th. To add on to her record-breaking performance, on July 20, she earned the first triple-double in Sky history and only the seventh in WNBA history, and she recorded a franchise-history 15 assists in that game. The team also scored 114 points, the most in franchise history, in that game against Dallas.

DOUBLE-DOUBLE

Courtney Vandersloot went on a tear and had four double-doubles in a row at the end of July. In those games she also broke the record for most assists over a 4 game period with 50 assists. The previous record was 46 assists by Ticha Penicheiro.

BEAT THE CHAMPS

The Sky beat the Minnesota Lynx on July 7 by 14 points. The team shot 52.9 percent from three. They held the Lynx to 27.8 percent three-point shooting, going into the game they ranked second in three-point percentage behind the Sky. The Sky bench contributed 34 points, tying their high for the season.

ROOKIES RULE

As one of the younger teams in the WNBA, the Sky calls on rookies to play some valuable minutes. Through veteran guidance and under the leadership of Coach Stocks, the Sky hopes to capitalize on its youth this season. Diamond DeShields is the team's second leading scorer averaging 13.4 PPG, which ranks second in rookie scoring. DeShields also ranks second in rookie rebounding. Forward Gabby Williams leads the WNBA in steals per game (1.7), and she ranks fourth in rookie rebounding at 4.2 RPG.

SKY PLAYOFF HISTORY

In 2013, the Chicago Sky faced off against longtime rival Indiana Fever in the Eastern Conference Semifinals. The following year, 2014, the Sky made it into the playoffs as the fourth seed in the Eastern Conference, sporting a 15-19 record. Anything can happen in the playoffs, and the Sky proved that. In the Eastern Conference Semifinals, the Sky knocked out the number one seeded Atlanta Dream 2-1 in a three game series. The Eastern Conference Finals featured a rematch of the previous year's Semifinal with the Sky taking on the Indiana Fever. This time it was the Sky who came out ahead, defeating Indiana 2-1 in a three game series. In the Sky's first ever WNBA Finals appearance they took on the Phoenix Mercury. The streak of playoff appearances continued into 2015 for the Sky. Finishing with a 21-13 record, Chicago came in as the number two seed. Their opponent in the Eastern Conference Semifinals was a familiar one in the Indiana Fever. The Sky made their fourth overall and fourth consecutive playoff appearance in franchise history in 2016.

AMBER STOCKS - GENERAL MANAGER AND HEAD COACH

Amber Stocks enters her second season as the GM & Head Coach for the Chicago Sky.

With Stocks' leadership, the 2017 team achieved many notable milestones and accomplishments. This stellar passing and shooting Sky team set a single season record with the Most Team Assists in WNBA history and finished the season ranked first in the league in team assists and 3PT FG%. The team oriented style-of-play that Stocks implemented in her inaugural season also set the stage for point guard Courtney Vandersloot to set a WNBA record with the highest single-season assist average in WNBA history. Injecting Allie Quigley into the starting lineup spurred a career best season for the guard, which included setting a Chicago Sky record for the most 3PT Field Goals Made in a season. For the first time in franchise history, the Sky produced 2 WNBA All-Stars in the same season with Quigley and Stefanie Dolson both earning All-Star status.

Stocks began by revamping the roster with a blockbuster trade that brought Dolson, Kahleah Copper and Alaina Coates (via acquisition of the 2017 #2 draft pick) to Chicago. Stocks continued to make bold roster moves that brought the Sky sharp-shooter Jordan Hooper and an additional 2018 first-round draft pick. For the first time in franchise history, the Sky had two lottery picks in the 2018 WNBA draft, and cashed in on Diamond DeShields and Gabby Williams.

A veteran coach and experienced player of over 20 years, Stocks came to the Sky after two successful seasons as an assistant coach for the Los Angeles Sparks. During her time with the Sparks, Stocks helped turn around a franchise that went 14-20 in 2015 to 26-8 in 2016.

Stocks was key in scouting and game preparation, spurring the Sparks' run to 2016 WNBA Champions. In addition to her essential role in strategy preparation, Stocks was also responsible for coaching the LA frontcourt, which included the 2016 WNBA MVP, the 2016 6th Woman and the 2016 Finals MVP.

A long time collegiate women's basketball coach, Stocks has also taken her coaching expertise to television, appearing as a color analyst on ESPN 3, the Big East Digital Network and FoxSports. As a transition out of collegiate coaching, Stocks worked as the Program Director and Head Coach for the Tucson HEAT Basketball Association (2009-13) in Arizona.

Stocks spent seven seasons as an assistant coach at Xavier University (2002-06, 2007-09). During her tenure with the Musketeers, she assisted Kevin McGuff in putting together five 20-win seasons and six national post-season appearances. Prior to joining Xavier, Stocks spent two seasons on staff at the University of Tennessee (2000-2002), working closely with then Lady Vols head coach Pat Summitt. While at Tennessee, she was part of two regular season SEC Championships, the 2002 Final Four, and worked with an array of decorated Lady Vols and future WNBA standouts.

A four-year women's basketball letter winner at University of Cincinnati, Stocks was a four-time Bearcat Scholar honoree, three-time Defensive Player Award recipient and helped lead the Bearcats to a Conference USA Championship. She played 116 games in her career, making 99 starts from 1995-99, and finished her career in the record books for multiple categories including top five rankings in games played and three-point shots made. Also while at UC, Stocks was an All-Conference track athlete, earning two letters in track and field and setting two school records. Stocks earned a bachelor's degree with a concentration in Exercise and Sport Science from the University of Cincinnati in 1999.
