MATCHUP NOTES

- The Storm finished 1-2 last year vs. the Atlanta Dream, with its only win coming on the road. All three meetings occured prior to the 2018 WNBA All-Star break.
- Like the Storm, the Dream secured a double-bye in the 2018 playoffs as the No. 2 overall seed. Atlanta came within one game of its first trip to the WNBA Finals since 2013, but ultimately fell short in a winner-take-all Game 5 against the Washington Mystics.
- In her first season at the helm of the Dream, head coach Nicki Collen led Atlanta to an 11-win improvement. Similarly, Dan Hughes helped the Storm to an 11-win improvement in 2018, his first year as head coach of the Storm.
- The Dream remain without Angel McCoughtry, who suffered a season-ending knee injury on Aug. 7. At that time, she ranked 15th in scoring (16.5 PPG) and was averaging a career-high 6.0 rebounds per game. The Dream managed to finish the regular season 4-1 despite missing McCoughtry.
- Last season, the Dream shot a league-best 47.6 percent from the field in clutch time (defined as the last five minutes of the fourth quarter/ OT with score within five points). Atlanta was 9-0 in games decided by five points last year.
- 2018 WNBA All-Star Jewell Loyd is coming off a season in which she led the league averaging 4.1 points per game off opponents' turnovers. Atlanta's Tiffany Hayes was tied for second on the list, scoring 3.8 points per game off turnovers.

STRENGTH	STRENGTH vs. STRENGTH (2018 RANKS)
	SEA OFFENSE	ATL DEFENSE
PPG	87.2 (2nd)	79.6 (3rd)
FG pct	46.8% (1st)	42.4% (1st)
3-pt FG pct	37.6% (1st)	32.5% (2nd)
Efficiency	108.5 (2nd)	97.6 (1st)

- This matchup will pit a high-powered offense against a lockdown defense. Seattle's offense and Atlanta's defense ranked among the top three in the league in scoring, shooting and efficiency.
- Jessica Breland was named to the All-Defensive First Team in 2018 for the first time in her WNBA career. She was the third-leading shot blocker in the league behind Brittney Griner and Natasha Howard. Breland's Dream teammate Elizabeth Williams ranked fourth in the WNBA with 1.8 blocks per game.

SCOUTING THE STORM'S NEXT OPPONENT

- After playing in Atlanta, the Storm heads to Chicago to face the Sky in the second night of a back-to-back. The Storm is 26-33 all time in the second game of back-to-backs.
- The Storm also played a back-to-back on the road last year, going 2-0 on Aug. 6-7, 2018 at New York and Indiana. Seattle's 15-point win at Indiana was the second-largest road win on zero days of rest in franchise history.
- Seattle swept the 2018 regular-season series with Chicago, 3-0, which included an overtime win on 5/25/18 at KeyArena. The Storm has won six of its last seven games against the Sky.
- Jewell Loyd, an Illinois native, averaged 22.7 points, 7.7 rebounds and 5.3 assists in three games vs. Chicago last season.
- Coutney Vandersloot averaged a WNBA single-season record 8.6 assists per game last year. It marked the second straight season she had led the league in assists. Seattle's Sue Bird ranked second in the league with a career-high 7.1 dimes per game.

LAST TIME OUT

Minnesota 72, Seattle 61 - Target Center (5/29/19)
Despite a solid second half from Natasha Howard, the Storm couldn't overcome a sluggish start against the Minnesota Lynx, falling in its first road contest of the 2019 campaign, 72-61. With both teams missing stars from their respective 2017 and 2018 WNBA title runs, Lynx guard Odyssey Sims led her new team with 15 points and five assists, while Seattle's Natasha Howard tallied a game-high 18 points, including 14 points in the paint. Sylvia Fowles, the 2017 WNBA MVP and Finals MVP, led the efforts on the glass with 13 rebounds, finishing three points shy of a double-double. Relinquishing an early 4-2 lead, Seattle entered the second frame down by 13 points. Jewell Loyd put together a particularly strong second quarter for the Storm with eight points on 4-of-8 shooting. Yet after 20 minutes of action, the Storm had tallied just 24 points on 30.3% (10-33) shooting, marking its fewest points in either half since Sept. 13, 2015 (24 points in the second half vs. San Antonio). Though at one point trailing by as many as 20 points, the Storm was able to finish within 11 points of Minnesota thanks to a strong effort from Natasha Howard, who poured in 14 points (6-9 FG) in the second half.

PREVIOUS GAME

Seattle 77, Phoenix 68 - Angel of the Winds Arena (5/25/19)
The Seattle Storm, playing its first regular-season game at Angel of the Winds Arena in front of a sellout crowd of 8,500, tipped off its 20th season in franchise history with a 77-68 win against the Phoenix Mercury. With three of its 2018 Finals starters sidelined, the Storm began the game with Kaleena Mosqueda-Lewis, Crystal Langhorne, Natasha Howard, Jewell Loyd and Jordin Canada on the floor - a quintent that had shared the court for all of four minutes in 2018. Phoenix, without WNBA all-time scoring leader Diana Taurasi, capitalized early on Storm mistakes, converting eight turnovers into eight points in the first 10 minutes of play. Facing an 11-point deficit at the 7:37 mark of the 2nd quarter, the Storm went on a 14-3 run to enter halftime tied, 32-32. After making just 34 percent of its field goal attempts in the first half, the Storm shot 50 percent the rest of the way. Jewell Loyd delivered a three-pointer in the third quarter (8:19) to give the Storm its first lead (34-37) since the 5:50 mark of the first quarter. Phoenix's DeWanna Bonner scored 15 straight points for the Mercury to bring the game within two points, but the Storm never relinquished the lead. With 40.5 seconds left in the game, Howard recorded her 16th rebound, surpassing her previous career high of 15 set on June 10 vs. Atlanta last season. Jordin Canada also recorded a personal best with 16 points. With the win, the Storm improved to 10-10 all-time in season openers and 12-8 in home openers. with 16 points. SEATTLE'S FG QUEEN

With three made field goals at Los Angeles on July 25, 2017, Bird became the Storm's all-time leader in field goals made with 2,091, passing Lauren Jackson (2,090). Not only did Bird pass Jackson in the franchise rankings, she also passed the Aussie on the WNBA's all-time rankings, moving to No. 8, now with 2,247 buckets.

NBA CROSSOVER

Excluding the 2013 season that she missed due to injury, Sue Bird has appeared in 93% of possible regular-season games since entering the WNBA, playing just under 80% of possible minutes. Those participation rates over an 82-game season with 48-minute games would equate to more than 17,000 points and 8,000 assists over 16 seasons. There are only nine NBA players ever to reach those numbers: Isiah Thomas, John Stockton, Oscar Robertson, Gary Payton, Steve Nash, Jason Kidd, Magic Johnson, LeBron James and Chris Paul.

DEEP BALL SPECIALIST

Bird hit her 800th career three-pointer against the Las Vegas Aces on May 27, 2018 and currently sits No. 3 on the WNBA all-time three-pointers made list.

LIVING LEGEND

Drafted No. 1 overall by the Storm in 2002, Sue Bird has spent her entire WNBA career in Seattle, winning her third WNBA championship in 2018 at the age of 37. Bird, the oldest active player in the WNBA, is part of a group of notable figures to win a championship with their original franchise at age 37, joining Tim Duncan (Spurs, 2014 NBA Championship), Yogi Berra (Yankees, 1963 World Series), Jean Beliveau (Canadiens, 1971 Stanley Cup Final) and Tom Brady (Patriots, Super Bowls XLIX, LI & LIII). *NOTE: This is not a complete list, just notable names.

A TRUE SPORT

Following the 2018 regular season, Sue Bird was awarded the 2018 Kim Perrot Sportsmanship award. The award is presented each season to a player who exemplifies the ideals of sportsmanship on the court, including ethical behavior, fair play and integrity. This was the third time that Bird has received such honor, who also received the award in 2017 and shared the accolade with Ruth Riley in 2011.

HEY NOW, ALL STAR

Sue Bird earned her 11th All-Star nod in 2018, breaking a tie with Tamika Catchings for the most All-Star selections in WNBA history. The year prior, Bird set the WNBA All-Star game record with 11 assists in front of a crow of over 15,000 at KeyArena.

Bird was joined at the 2018 WNBA All-Star Game by Storm teamates Breanna Stewart and Jewell Loyd, as well as head coach Dan Hughes. Team Parker defeated Team Delle Donne by a final margin of 119-112. Stewart posted 10 points and five rebounds and Bird notched five points and eight assists as starters for Team Delle Donne. Loyd chipped in 12 points and four assists off the bench for Team Parker.

STEWIE: BY THE NUMBERS

Last season, Breanna Stewart added both the 2018 WNBA regular-season MVP and 2018 WNBA Finals MVP awards to her already cluttered trophy shelf. She is the six player in WNBA history to win both awards in the same season, and the first Storm player since Lauren Jackson did so in 2010. Both Stewart and Jackson earned their first MVP awards in their third WNBA seasons.

The Storm will be without Stewart for the 2019 season due to an Achilles injury. Stewart missed just one game in her first three seasons with the Storm: the 2017 season opener at Los Angeles, a 78-68 loss to the Sparks. She had started the last 67 consecutive games for Seattle, just two shy of fifth-most consecutive starts in franchise history.

BACK-TO-BACK

The Storm embarks on a road back-to-back series at Atlanta and Chicago (5/31-6/1). The Storm also played a back-to-back on the road last year, going 2-0 on Aug. 6-7, 2018 at New York and Indiana. Seattle's 15-point win at Indiana was the second-largest road win on zero days of rest in franchise history.

WELCOME, SHAVONTE

Seattle added a veteran presence to the squad, signing Shavonte Zellous as a free agent in April. Over 10 seasons in the WNBA, Zellous has averaged 9.4 points, 2.8 rebounds and 2.0 assists, helping her teams reach the playoffs nine times. The 2013 WNBA Most Improved Player averaged 8.2 points and 3.0 assists in 22 games before suffering a season-ending ankle injury with the New York Liberty last season.

THREE-PEAT

USA Basketball has presented its Female Athlete of the Year award annually since 1980. In December, Breanna Stewart joined Diana Taurasi (4), Teresa Edwards (4) and Lisa Leslie (3) as the only players to receive the honor on at least three occasions. Stewart previously earned the distinction in 2011 and 2013.

HAPPY 20th!

Seattle is one of two franchises celebrating its 20th season in the WNBA, joined by the Indiana Fever. The Storm played its very first game on May 31, 2000 – a 76-60 loss at the Sacramento Monarchs. The now-defunct Portland Fire and Miami Sol also debuted in 2000.

ROAD WARRIORS

The Storm plays just two of its first nine games in the Pacific Northwest. After opening the season at home, Seattle visits Minnesota, Atlanta and Chicago before returning home for one game on June 4. The Storm then heads back to Chicago to start a fourgame trip which also includes visits to Indiana, Washington and Connecticut. All said, Seattle will log just shy of 10,000 miles over an eight-game, 23-day stretch.

HUGHES COACHING TREE

Seattle Storm head coach Dan Hughes will go up against four of his former assistant coaches this season. His extensive WNBA head coaching tree includes: Chicago's James Wade, Minnesota's Cheryl Reeve, Dallas' Brian Agler; and Phoenix's Sandy Brondello, whom he also drafted. While the head coach of the San Antonio Stars, Hughes coached Becky Hammon, an assistant coach on Greg Popovich's San Antonio Spurs staff.

NO BIRD, NO STEWIE

The Storm began the 2019 season without Breanna Stewart or Sue Bird for the second time in four years together. In 2017, the Storm lost its season opener in Los Angeles, 78-68.

HELPING OUT

Last year, Sue Bird's passes to Breanna Stewart resulted in 214 points, the highest total of assisted points by any teammates in a single season in WNBA history (per the Elias Sports Bureau).

EYEING GOLD

Shortly after winning the 2018 WNBA Finals, Storm head coach Dan Hughes, Jewell Loyd, Sue Bird and Breanna Stewart joined the USA Women's Basketball Team in Tenerife, Spain for the 2018 FIBA Women's World Cup. Stewart garnered MVP honors for the gold medal-winning squad, starting all six games and Apacing the team with 26.8 minutes and 16.3 points per game, as well as a 58.0 field goal percentage. With the win, the USA earned an automatic berth in the Toyko 2020 Games.

CLARK vs WHITCOMB

Alysha Clark (Lyon) defeated Storm teammate Sami Whitcomb (BLMA) in a winner-take-all Game 5 to decide the French League championship on Thursday, May 23. Both immediately returned to Seattle for the Storm's ring ceremony and season opener on Saturday, May 25. In 32 French League games, Whitcomb averaged 13.2 points, 5.5 rebounds and 3.3 assists per game, and attempted a whopping 256 shots from beyond the arc. Clark, in 27 French League games, averaged 12.9 points, 6.6 rebounds and 3.1 assists per game while shooting 52.1% from the field. Clark's team is owned by NBA leagnd Tony Parker.

AUSSIE ATTRACTION

With the No. 12 pick in the 2019 WNBA Draft, the Seattle Storm selected 19-year old Australian Eziyoda "Ezi" Magbegor. The 6-foot-4 forward logged 10 minutes for the Australian Opals in the 2018 FIBA Women's World Cup championship game against the United States, collecting six points and four rebounds while facing Sue Bird, Jewell Loyd and Breanna Stewart. As planned, Magbegor will continue to develop her game in Australia this season and report to the Storm in 2020.

MOST IMPROVED PLAYER

In her first season as a member of the Seattle Storm, Natasha Howard more than tripled her scoring average, as it rose from 4.3 to 13.2 points per game year over year. She also set career bests in rebounding (4.1), blocks (2.0) and field goal percentage (54.7). After playing a total of 39 minutes in the 2017 playoffs with the Minnesota Lynx, Howard started all eight playoffs games for the Storm en route to her second straight WNBA championship.

5 TEAMS, 10 CHAMPIONSHIPS

Including Seattle's two most recent championships 2010 and 2018, the first four home games of the Storm's 2019 campaign will feature the five teams that have combined to win the last 10 WNBA titles: Phoenix (2009 and 2014), Minnesota (2011, 2013, 2015, 2017), Los Angeles (2016) and Indiana (2014).

REPEAT READY

The Storm is seeking to become the first WNBA team to win back-to-back championships since the Los Angeles Sparks won its second title in 2002. The Houston is the only other WNBA franchise to win championships in consecutive years, as the Comets took home the first four trophies in league history behind four-time Finals MVP Cynthia Cooper.

ON THE REBOUND

After dropping its road opener on 5/29 against Minnesota, the Storm seeks to avoid consecutive losses for the first time since 2017 - a three-game losing streak that began with an 89-83 loss in Atlanta.

DAN HUGHES BIOGRAPHY

DAN HUGHES

WNBA Head Coaching Record: 263-295 Seattle Storm Head Coachina Record: 26-8

Seasons in the WNBA: 18th Season Seasons with the Storm: 2nd Season

Dan Hughes was named the Seattle Storm's sixth head coach in franchise history on Oct. 4, 2017. In his first year in Seattle, Hughes guided the team to a league-best 26-8 record, an 11-win improvement from the previous season; clinched the No. 1 overall seed in the playoffs; and swept the Washington Mystics in the WNBA Finals to earn the third title in franchise history.

Hughes, who has coached more WNBA games (558) than anyone in league history, has an overall record of 263-295 (.471), good for the third-most wins all-time in the league. He was twice named WNBA Coach of the Year: first in 2001, after guiding the Cleveland Rockers to a 22-10 mark; and again in 2007, after posting a 20-14 record with San Antonio. Hughes also served as a head coach at the 2009 and 2018 WNBA All-Star Games.

Hughes spent 11 years as the head coach and general manager for San Antonio, 2005-09, and 2011-16, guiding the Stars to six postseason appearances. Prior to San Antonio, he led the Cleveland Rockers from 2000-03, and was elevated to head coach in Charlotte midway through the 1999 season, posting a 10-10 record for the Sting. With those three franchises, Hughes made 10 playoff appearances in 16 total seasons, including one WNBA Finals showing in 2008 with San Antonio.

Hughes' leadership is evidenced by his extensive head coaching tree that includes Chicago's James Wade, who began his WNBA career on Hughes' San Antonio staff from 2012-16; Minnesota's Cheryl Reeve, who worked with Hughes in Cleveland in 2003; Dallas' Brian Agler, who was on Hughes' staff in San Antonio from 2005-07; and Phoenix's Sandy Brondello, who was drafted by Hughes in 1998 and served on his staff in San Antonio from 2005-09. Many of his former players have also gone on to coach in the professional ranks, such as Becky Hammon, an assistant coach for the San Antonio Spurs.

Hughes, who served on the USA Basketball Women's National Team Player Selection Committee from 2009-16, was an assistant coach for the 2018 USA Basketball Women's National Team that won gold at the FIBA Women's World Cup.

Prior to the WNBA, he served as the assistant coach for the University of Toledo's women's basketball program (1996-97) and men's basketball program (1991-96). Hughes also served assistant coaching roles with the men's basketball teams at Mount Union College (1982-84 and 1985-91) and Baldwin-Wallace College (1984-85), and as a graduate assistant at Miami of Ohio (1977-78).

In 1977, Hughes graduated with a degree in physical education and history from Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio. He went on to collect a Master's Degree in education from Miami University of Ohio in 1978. Hughes and his wife, Mary, have two children, Bryce and Sara, son-in-law Major Craig Bayer, and grandkids Logan, Jonah, Casey and Penny.
